Germany Decrees Civil Emergency in Bohemia-Moravia

POINTS IN SICILY AND MAINLAND TARGETS OF R.A.F. ASSAULTS

Great Britain and Italy reported a violent exchange of blows in air and sea fighting today, with RAF bombers raiding nine Fascist cities overnight in the heaviest assaults of the war there, while Premier Mussolini's High Command announced a smashing nine-hour attack on a British convoy in the Mediterranean.

Informed quarters in London hinted that the RAF's all-out offensive, striking with the heaviest possible bomb loads, might be the start of a "bomb Italy out of the war" campaign.

It was the 220th raid of the war on Italy.

Italians countered with reports of a devastating aerial attack on the British Mediterranean fleet.

Three British cruisers and at least three merchant ships were sunk by Italian torpedo planes, the Fascist High Command said.

On the Russian war front, the Berlin radio quoted Baghdad dispatches as saying British troops were rumored en route to reinforce Russia's Red armies in the Caucasus.

Two divisions of British troops were said to have left Baghdad for the north.

Simultaneously, an official British communique said Britain's highest commanders in Africa and Asia had worked out "full details of cooperation" regarding "the anti-Axis front now established from Syria through Iraq and Iran to the left flank of the Russian armies."

The British leaders, Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander in India, and Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auckinleck, Middle East commander, worked out the program in a two-day session in Baghdad, it was disclosed.

The Italian High Command acknowledged a toll of 11 persons killed and 55 wounded as RAF bombers pounded four Italian mainland cities, four in Sicily and the island city of Rhodes. In addition, two persons were killed in blackouts.

London dispatches said the RAF left great fires raging in Genoa and at other points in northern Italy.

The RAF avoided Rome—despite earlier expectations that the Fascist capital might be bombed in reprisal for an Axis attack on Cairo, Holy City of the Moslem world—but showered high-explosive bombs an incendiaries on Genoa, Spezia, Turin and Savona Marina on the Italian mainland. Some of the casualties were at a fifth mainland city, Milan, but the injuries and fatalities were from anti-aircraft shells and traffic accidents.

In the Russian campaign, now in its 15th week, Soviet dispatches reported the rout of two German-Allied Rumanian infantry brigades in bitter fighting on the southern (Ukraine) front, with more than 2,500 Rumanians killed, and declared that Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red armies on the central front had recaptured 10 more villages in a drive from Yelnya to Smolensk.

ROME REPORTS NUMBER BRITISH VESSELS SUNK

By the Associated Press

Rome, Sept. 29—In a sudden burst of violent air and sea fighting, Italian torpedo planes have sunk three British cruisers and at least three merchantmen in a nine-hour attack on a Mediterranean convoy and the British have answered with an all-out bombing offensive against Italy, the High Command reported today.

Wave after wave of Italian planes pounced on the British convoy sailing eastward from Gibraltar Saturday, keeping up the attack on it despite fierce sky fighting in which six British planes were shot flaming into the sea and eight Italian planes were lost, the High Command said.

The British, it said, raided four cities on the Italian mainland, four in Sicily and blasted at the Island of Rhodes and the North African coast last night, one of the most intensive air raid incursions the Italians have experienced.

(An Admiralty communique in London earlier said that a British Mediterranean convoy which was attacked by Italian planes had reached its destination with only one merchant ship lost and one destroyer damaged.

(The Admiralty had no comment to make on these later Italian claims.

(The merchant ship was damaged too badly to continue and was sunk by the British themselves, the Admiralty communique said, and the destroyer's damage was not

Advices reaching London said that German warplanes were violently blasting railroads and highways on the Crimea peninsula, key to control of Black Sea waters, but that Nazi troops were making little if any progress in attempts to cross the four-mile-wide Perekop isthmus.

Adolf Hitler's high command, silent on the Crimea operations, reported that German and Italian troops had out-flanked and destroyed three Soviet divisions—about 45,000 men—in a battle northeast of the Nazi-held city of Dnieperopetrovsk.

The high command said the Russians, caught in swampy terrain, suffered heavy and bloody losses, with 13,000 Red troops taken prisoner so far.

Premier Mussolini's high command asserted that torpedo-firing Italian planes sank three British cruisers in an attack on a convoy in the central Mediterranean. A battleship, another large ship, a destroyer and six smaller ships also were damaged, the Italians reported.

Moscow reported that seven German ships had been sunk or damaged, including a cruiser, three destroyers, two transports, and a tanker, while the Germans countered with a claim that Nazi shore batteries set a Russian cruiser afire and that dive-bombers hit a Soviet battleship near Kronstadt naval base, guarding the sea approach to Leningrad.

In the grim back-stage struggle of the war theater, Germany clamped down with eight firing-squad executions in an attempt to crush bitter manifestations of revolt in the conquered countries.

Two more persons were put to death in Paris for possessing forbidden weapons, Berlin announced, and six were shot in the German protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, in former Czechoslovakia.

SCHOOLS OPEN IN COUNTIES HIT BY POLIO SPREAD

Youngsters in Dauphin, York, Cumberland, Lebanon, Schuylkill and Montgomery Return to Their Classes; Two Others Are Closed

VICTIM 50 YEARS OLD

Harrisburg, Sept. 29—(AP)—School bells rang for the first time today in all or part of nine Pennsylvania counties where the infantile paralysis outbreak has struck hardest this year but two communities closed their schools because of new cases.

While youngsters in Dauphin, York, Cumberlan, Lebanon, Schuylkill and Montgomery counties, and parts of Lancaster, Cambria and Northumberland counties, were gathering up their books, authorities at Reading—where 17,000 public school pupils are affected—and Prospects Park, a Philadelphia suburb, closed their schools.

Reading will close down for a week; West Reading and Wyomissing boroughs for two weeks and Kenhorst until further notice, in what officials described as a precautionary measure to prevent spread of the disease.

Prospect Park's institutions were ordered closed for at least two weeks by the board of health a few hours after the district's first case was reported yesterday. Three-year-old Ralph Teeter, whose family moved east from Indianapolis four months ago, was stricken. He has a school-age sister. The closing affects about 700 pupils.

York county, center of the outbreak, reported three more cases over the weekend, bringing the total there to 100 since January 1. The 100th victim was Charles Mumma, 50, oldest victim thus far reported in the county.

As far as the state was con-

SLAYING OF GOLFER BAFFLING

Officials Investigating the Hold-up Murder of 27-Year-Old Nationally Famous Player, and Serious Wounding of Her Mother at Aristocratic Lexington Country Club, Stumped in Effort to Track Down Assailants

TRAGEDY IS TERMED A CASE OF ROBBERY

Sub for 1st para—SLAYING . . .

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 29—(AP)—Police questioned employes of the fashionable Lexington country club and several other persons today as they sought the gunmen who killed Marion Miley, 27, nationally known golfer, and critically wounded her mother, Mrs. Elsa Ego Miley, 50, in their apartment at the club yesterday.

Chief of Police Austin B. Price said, however, there were no suspects under surveillance and that "we haven't gotten anywhere so far."

Mrs. Miley, who was shot three times, was in a critical condition after an emergency operation yesterday to remove the bullets.

Chief Price said a money bag containing approximately $60 had been found in a locked closet in her bedroom.

Mrs. Miley, manager of the club, had told police before she lapsed into unconsciousness that two men had shot her and her daughter after demanding reciepts from a dance held at the club Saturday night. She said the receipts totalled $145. Earlier police had found $60 in the club office.

Price said the finding of the money had not changed his theory that robbery was the motive for the crime.

Harrigan called the crime "probably the most sensational murder case" on record in the Bluegrass, while Investigation Superintendent Guy W. Mauphin termed the tragedy "a plain case of robbery," possibly committed by amateur bandits.

The Philadelphia born Miss Miley was shot through the head and chest, and her mother, Mrs. Fred Miley, 50, was hit three times in the abdomen, after being roused early yesterday morning by two robbers at their country club apartment demanding location of the money.

Mrs. Miley, club manager, stumbled through the darkened white-columned building to a sanatorium 300 yards away from where police were called.

RAIN NEEDED TO RELIEVE FOREST FIRE SITUATION

Due to the continued drought period over the last few weeks, an early fall forest fire season started yesterday. Fires were reported in various parts of Pennsylvania. In the Complanter District, of which Warren county is a part, four fires occurred.

The worst was in a new hemlock slashing on Yankee Bush, three miles north of Starbrick. It burned eight acres and caused considerable damage to the cut timber that had not been logged off the area. Smaller fires burned in various parts of the district. One was at the extension of Glade avenue, in Glade township, another was on the north side of Brown run in Mead township and another three miles north of Garland on the Corry road.

Some of the key towers were manner over the weekend and all towers will be manned on October 1st or shortly thereafter.

Honor Roll Appearing for First Time Tomorrow Will Show Names of Thirty Leading Infants in Unusual Campaign

Tomorrow will mark the first publication of the standing of the leading candidates in the Warren Times-Mirror's Favorite Baby Election and Trade Expansion in which $2,000 in cash prizes and two huge engraved gold cups will be awarded.

The Honor Roll, to be printed for the first time tomorrow, will show the thirty leading babies' names. The Honor Roll will be published each Tuesday, and will show the standings of the leaders from week to week.

The editor of the baby election is at loss to understand why more babies have not been entered in the novel event; there is no cost of any kind in naming a baby boy or girl for the signal honor of being elected The Favorite Baby of the community, and with the first prize of $500 in cash and the huge loving cup as attendant honors, it seems there would be babies from every town near Warren vieing for the place, the election editor declared yesterday.

Pictures are taken and published free of charge—and every baby under six years of age, residing in Warren or anywhere in the trading territory, is eligible, except the children of merchants cooperating with the newspaper and their employees.

Tomorrow will see the first list of entrants; the books of enrollment are still open—if you haven't

PITTSBURGH IS MAKING EFFORT TO PURIFY AIR

Smoke-Elimination Ordinance Adopted in July Becomes Effective October 1 for Industrial and Commercial Establishments

PENALTY IS $100 A DAY

Pittsburgh, Sept. 29—(AP)—The nation's steel capital, after being twitted about its smoke for 150 years, embarks Wednesday on a new attempt to rid its atmosphere of soot.

A smoke-elimination ordinance adopted by council in July becomes effective October 1 for industrial and commercial establishments. Regulations will extend gradually during a two-year period to embrace all Pittsburgh.

Beginning Wednesday, factories, mills, store buildings, laundries and apartment buildings will be prohibited from embitting smoke containing more than 40 per cent soot. Furnaces installed in homes henceforth must be of a smoke-elimination type or burn smokeless fuel.

Railroad locomotives and steamboats on the city's three rivers will be partially regulated now and more strictly next year. Under the final restrictions, they will be allowed to give off dense smoke no more than one minute in any hour. Violators will be subject to a fine of $100 a day.

Processed coal and coke, which would meet with the regulations, cost $2 to $4 more a ton than the widely-used bituminous.

Civic clubs are working to get "full community support for the ordinance and see that it is efficiently enforced." A similar ordinance was adopted in 1916, but as time went by it was rarely enforced.

The new law, based upon one which rid St. Louis of smoke, was demanded by health authorities, civic organizations, municipal officials and newspapers. The city health department said that in 1940 industrial and residental chimneys poured out enough soot to cover each house and lot with 500 pounds of it.

BATTLE LOST BY 'IRON LUNG KID'

Pittsburgh, Sept. 29—(AP)—Jimmy Colton, 18-year-old "iron lung kid" acclaimed for his courage, has lost his two-year battle for life. Stricken with infantile paralysis in 1939, he died last night.

BOARD PLANNING MEDIATION OF THREE DISPUTES

By the Associated Press

Birmingham steel mills of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company resumed production today after CIO Steel Workers ended a short-lived strike, but labor controversies kept mediators busy in other sectors of the defense production front.

Settlement of the Birmingham strike followed soon after removal of 500 Alabama state guardsmen from about company plants. Grievances at the Ensley plant of the company, where the strike began Friday night, will be negotiated, with any wage adjustments retroactive to Sept. 1.

The National Defense Mediation Board arranged to revote much of its attention during the next ten days to three disputes involving 80,000 workers in the coal, shipping and aircraft industries.

The board will begin hearings tomorrow on a seaman's strike for war bonuses on ships sailing into dangerous waters.

The board has set Thursday for hearings on a threatened strike of about 22,000 employes of the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, San Diego, in a dispute over wages.

Also pending before the board is the dispute between operators of captive mines, owned principally

Dad Suicides After He Sees Daughters Smoke

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A 55-year old widower, who had reared three daughters, killed himself last night. Detective Daniel O'Mahoney said, because he saw the girls smoking cigarettes.

The father, Elia Taddi, was found dead of a bullet wound in the heart at his home. A pistol lay nearby.

O'Mahoney said the daughters, Rose, 24, Adeline, 22, and Dolores, 20, whom Taddi had reared through their 'teens, related their father had been distressed when he saw them smoking yesterday in a store.

"He never suspected we smoke," one of the girls said.

MODIFICATION OF NEUTRALITY ACT IS DEBATED

Some Legislative Sources Predict Forthcoming Message May Be Limited to Request for Authority to Arm Merchantmen

NO DECISION REACHED

Washington, Sept. 29—(AP)—Congress appeared convinced today that President Roosevelt intended to request the power to arm merchant shipping, but there was disagreement as to whether he would seek a further modification of the neutrality act so that American vessels might operate to belligerent ports or in waters now prohibited as "combat areas."

Some legislative sources predicted that the president's forthcoming message would limit itself to a request for authority to put guns on merchantmen, because any proposal for more extensive revision would arouse formidable opposition.

Other prominent legislators, said they believed that the message would ask both the arming of ships and the elimination of restrictions which belligerent ports and "combat areas."

There were several administration lieutenants on capitol hill who claimed they could count on enough votes in both house and senate for any revision of the neutrality act that Mr. Roosevelt might recommend. Those in this group argued that there was no reason to temporize with a piecemeal amendment of the law.

The final decision in the matter was expected to be reached tomorrow when the president confers with legislative leaders. The White House message on the neutrality act is looked for about Wednesday or Thursday.

Several legislative leaders were reported ready to recommend that revision proposals be limited to the arming of merchant ships.

Czech Government in Exile in London Announces That Six Persons Have Been Put to Death on Orders of New Reich Protectorate, Including General Joseph Bly, Deputy Commander at Bratislava

CHARGE PREMIER WITH PLANNING TREASON

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin, Sept. 29—(AP)—Six persons have been executed in the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, it was disclosed authoritatively today, as Germany enforced a rigid state of civil emergency and held the premier, General Alois Elias, under arrest on charges of premeditating treason.

(The Czech government in exile said in London that General Josef Bily, former military commander of Bohemia, and General Hugo Vojti, deputy commander of the Seventh Army Corps at Bratislava were among those executed in the first German suppressive moves.)

The German public and foreign correspondents in Germany knew no details of the developments in the protectorate beyond the announcement that Reinhard Heydrich, ace trouble shooter of the German secret police, had General Elias arrested and ordered the state of emergency within 24 hours after taking over the post of Reich's protector there Saturday.

Heydrich relieved 68-year-old Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, who was said to have asked for tmeporary leave because of ill health.

Berlin, Sept. 29—(AP)—General Alois Elias, premier of the German protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, was held today on charges of premeditating high treason as Nazi authorities took steps to curb certain elements among the Czech population which they said had committed acts hostile to the Reich.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN AUTOMOBILE

Glenolden, Pa., Sept. 29—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Florence Johnson, 31, whose husband reported yesterday she had been missing since last Friday, was found last night sprawled across the front seat of her automobile in a garage near her home.

Bloodstains were found about her nose and mouth but there were no indications of violence, Deputy Coroner Charles H. Drewes of Delaware county, reported. Dr. Arthur M. Largey estimated she had been dead about 24 hours.

The husband George Johnson, told Drews she had been under treatment for a nervous disorder and he had taken her to Pittsburgh last week for an examination by a physician. She disappeared with the family automobile, he said, and he returned to Glenolden to await her return.

Job Ferrying Bombers Is Most Monotonous U. S. Army Flier Says

Philadelphia, Sept. 29—(AP)—Flying bombers across the Atlantic ocean from Canada to England is just about the most monotonous thing that ever happened.

At least, that's what Captain John I. Devine, Jr., says.

"Nothing to it," said the 26-year-old former U. S. Army flier home for a weekend visit with his mother.

"There's no thrill in this job. It's so monotonous as to be boring. All you do is set your course on old George (automatic pilot)".

Devine has made two trips in Hudson-Lockheed bombers since joining the Royal Air Force ferry service two months ago after being mustered out of the army at Manila.

"While there have been no attacks, as far as I know, from enemy squadrons, we nevertheless keep our ships near what cloud strata there is in sight—just in case," he said. "Our job is to get the ships across safe and sound and keep out of trouble.

"Another instruction is to veer off from convoy below. A few pot shots from a gun crew which might mistake you for an enemy is no help to your peace of mind, and might blow you out of the air besides."

"You're in England within nine to 12 hours," he added.

He likes the pay though—$1,000 a month for one flight, $1,200 for two during a 30-day period and $1,500 for three.

First Year of Turnpike Justifies Its Construction Chairman States

Harrisburg, Sept. 29—(AP)—With its first birthday two days away, Pennsylvania's $70,000,000 high-speed turnpike was acclaimed today as the forerunner of similar highways which will net-work the east and connect Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

"Before many years, at least one highway of the same type will reach from coast to coast," predicted Chairman Walter A. Jones of the turnpike commission, long an advocate of express highways.

He declared the 160-mile highway had "justified not only its construction, but also its extension to Philadelphia and Ohio, and in fact, throughout the east."

Commission officials said the all-weather highway would return $3,000,000 during the first year of travel as compared with the income of $2,670,000 needed annually to meet expenses and bond interest.

During the year, more than 30 persons have been killed on the twin lines of concrete upon which a maximum speed of 70 miles an hour has now been placed.

Jones, who inspected German highways prior to the current war, sees the express-type highway as a "double-edged military weapon"—effective both for offensive and defensive operations.

Since the opening of the present toll road, 2,196,000 vehicles have rolled over it, paying $2,437,822 in fees. An additional $162,335 from concessions has boosted the total income as of August 31, to $2,360,000.

Announcement was made today that the local Bundles for Britain sewing division will resume work at the United Refining Company office building, second floor, on Tuesday morning, October 7th.

Mrs. Otto Peterson, chairman of the division, is anxious for all interested workers to be present at the opening fall session, as ample material has now been supplied.

Word has been received from New York headquarters that large quantities of finished garments are urgently needed to provide for the ever-increasing list of sick and wounded in England who are now facing a long, hard winter—the third since the beginning the war.

It is earnestly hoped that all who find it possible will be on hand to assist in starting this important work, it was stated today.

Kinzua

Kinzua, Sept. 20—Kinzua High School is back to normal schedule after an interruption by the resignation of the principal, B. D. Rosenberry, who accepted a similar position in the Mt. Morris High School in New York state and left immediately. Miss Laura K. Smutz, of Tidioute, was engaged to fill his place. Miss Smutz needs no introduction to Kinzua as she has taught here twice over a period of nine years and her many friends here are pleased that she has returned as high school instructor once again.

A number of persons from here attended the Methodist annual conference at Meadville, Pa., last Sunday, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colosimo, Mrs. H. L. Thompson, Mrs. Charles Linneman, Misses Gertrude White and Ellen Malmberg and Mrs. Gertrude Zerbe, following the afternoon service they remained for the wedding of Mrs. Ona B. Price was assigned to the Marienville charge of the Methodist church last Sunday in Meadville, and will be leaving soon for his new work. Rev. Jack Boyd from New Castle was the newly assigned pastor to the Kinzua and Corydon churches.

Many Kinzua persons hurried to the scene of the nitro-glycerine explosion on the Bradford road Friday noon. One of the first to reach the scene was Boyd English, who was on the Van Scoy lease near the explosion. He assisted in removing Mr. Martin and Streeter from their demolished car.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter 17

Unexpected Guest

"PAM! Ten years have been frightened off the far end of my life!" Jerry's arms closed around her and drew her tight, the water from their dripping garments making a little circle around them.

"Silly!" Pam exclaimed. "Have you forgotten that I was born in Key West?"

"And consequently swim like a fish. Yes, I had forgotten. I'd forgotten everything in the world, Pam, except that if you went out of my life all of its reason for being would be gone. That if I lost you I'd have lost everything."

Pam clung to Jerry in momentary panic. His words had brought home to her doubly what it would mean to her to lose him. She paused on the though of what she would have done if he had not plunged in after her.

It would, she knew, have built a barrier that they could never have surmounted. It would have separated them forever, because it would in a sense have been making a choice between his own crowd and her. If he had chosen the others in that crisis, she could never have forgiven him.

"Oh, Jerry!" Her emotion finally found words. "I feel that way, too. If I lost you, I'd lose everything. Everything!"

"I know, darling. I know." He kissed her damp face. "Pam, you're the dearest, sweetest girl in the world!"

"If I only could be, for you! I want to be everything in the world that you want."

It was Jerry who was first concerned about their wet clothes.

"You'll take cold," he said. "These wet things. Come, I must get you home where you can get dry ones."

"You keep forgetting that we Conch aren't afraid of salt water," Pam laughed. "Salt water never gives you a cold. It's being out in the rain that does that."

"Says you! Come, I'm taking no chances with you, sweet."

"But really I mean it, Jerry. We're never afraid of being wet with salt water. It never gives you a cold. That's a belief handed down through generations of seafaring men and their women. We're never afraid of the ocean, but we don't want its conch shells in our houses. We feel they're bad luck when you bring them under a roof."

"Nevertheless I'm taking no chances with you." He lifted her in his arms and carried her to his car. "You can change, darling, and then we'll go to the hotel and I'll change. We'll go back to the party and laugh at them for having given us the sweetest hour of my life."

"No, Jerry. I can't go back. Don't ask me to do that. I couldn't."

"But you don't expect me to take you home and then go back to the party alone, Pam? I couldn't do that, either. Not now, Darling. I've got to have you a little while longer. The night's too young and beautiful to give you up, even for a few hours, just yet."

"I'll tell you what"—Pam's voice was as eager as his own—"let's change and then drive to South Beach and let me show you the Southern Cross. They say this is the only place in the States where you can see it."

"In the mood I'm in, sweetheart, an ordinary garden-variety star would be a seven-days' wonder."

It was then that they were aware of Blaze standing beside the car, patiently awaiting her turn at attention. Jerry turned to her.

"You four-legged idiot," he said tenderly. "But you deserve a jewelled collar for your loyalty tonight. Come on," he invited and, with her dripping coat, she got into the car and rode along.

A Heroine Now

MELITA met them at the door and hurried to get a towel with which Jerry could dry Blaze. She hovered over Pam and clucked in anxiety like an old mother-hen over her chicks.

And Jerry, sitting on the bottom step briskly rubbing Blaze, who was thoroughly enjoying the attention, called up to Pam.

"Make yourself beautiful, darling," he said. "On second thought, this skipping the rest of the party is no go. We've got to go back. There is a lot of fun still to be had; the night's young. Besides, Pam, you're a heroine now, and won't that bite into Lenore's pride and vanity! That's going to be a wallop right where it will hurt her most, Pam—in her pride."

Pam didn't reply immediately.

"We can't let that girl annihilate us," Jerry went on then. "Besides, Mother and Dad would worry. They'd think we'd developed quick pneumonia, or something. So the Southern Cross can wait."

"All right," Pam's reply came thoughtfully, "anything you say."

Pam was thinking. Their mutual danger had tricked her into a revelation she had not wanted to make. A sudden upthrust of emotion had led her to say things she would probably regret, things she was not even sure she meant.

There was Leo. Steady, dependable, worthwhile Leo. And the memory of Jerry's bet about her with his friends still lay between them, an invisible barrier. That had not been explained away. Perhaps never could be.

She would go back to the yacht with him. That was all right. That would tantalize Lenore still further, and she had asked for all that could be given her. Pam was selecting another dress to put on.

"Since we're going to go back, Jerry," she said to him, "run along and get yourself into other things while I'm dressing, then come back for me."

She selected a dress of deep cream, a heavy rich silk that a sailor had brought to her father in return for some favor Quellerton had done for him. The marigolds, none the worse for their impromtu bath, were the single touch of ornamentation it needed.

"The encore, darling," Jerry said as he saw her again, "is better than the original number. If the girls were jealous of you before, they'll turn handsprings now. I'm glad to be going back to the party. "But," with elaborate emphasis, "that doesn't mean I don't want to see the Southern Cross with you later, darling."

New Guest

AS JERRY and Pam walked from their car to the boat, they noticed the solitary figure of a man standing staring at the boat with its blaze of light and sounds of gayety. They were passing quite near to him when something about the figure caught Pam's attention. She looked a trace more closely and then spoke.

"Hello, Vin," she said.

"Oh! Hello, Pam." The young man seemed to start as he spoke.

Jerry peered through the shadows and recognized the youth as the one who had seemed to be trailing Freda.

"Do you know him?" Jerry asked in a low voice.

"I've known Vin all my life."

Jerry turned to the young man then.

"Come along in and join the party," he said. "My dad owns the scow, so it's all right!"

Vin hesitated only a moment.

"I'm not dressed—" he started to say, and Pam smiled gently, for she knew the fresh white suit Vin wore was probably his best.

"Oh, you're all right!" Jerry cut in. "No rules and regulations here. Or if there are, I'm the bird who makes them. So come in and grab yourself an evening."

"I'd like to!"

Vin was beside them, walking in with them.

"Go pick yourself a partner, and have yourself a time," Jerry advised him with a friendly warmth. "No introductions here, the ship's flag does for that!"

So Vin slipped away to find himself a girl and Jerry and Pam were the bright stars of the moment.

Everyone had their congratulations to offer. As soon as he could, Jerry took Pam away to a little spot atop the cabin, from which he wanted to show her the stars. Up there he said:

"It wasn't stars I wanted to show you, Pam. Look! And he held in his hand the sea bean and the violet she had given him. "I've kept them with me continually."

"Jerry!" That swift uplift of her heart again. "But how foolish of you!"

"Foolish? Not at all, darling. These represent one of the smartest things I've ever done. And, you know"— he was grinning whimsically—"I seem to remember your saying you'd never ask me into your house again and my saying you couldn't keep that threat. Well, tonight you asked me in. I seem to be getting somewhere. Progressing, as it were."

"Foolish! Could I be discourteous to a man who had risked his life for me when he thought I needed saving?"

"Foolish? Well, as I seem to remember saying before, darling, it's nice foolishness."

It was then that Blaze, who had been crowded away from them in their triumphant return to the yacht, sniffed inquisitively from the stairs. Her nose was quickly followed by her whole eager body, her tail wagging madly at discovery of her loved ones.

"You old snooper!" Jerry scratched her ear fondly.

"Shall we go down and dance now?" Antoine was idling near the rail as Jerry and Pam passed. "Come on, Antoine." Jerry said. "we could do with a brace of cadenzas!"

Antoine grinned.

"The stars of the evening have but to command," was his easy reply as he moved toward his piano. A chord brought all the boys to attention. And Edmund's opening notes brought dancers to the floor.

Pam, looking over Jerry's shoulder, saw Vin trying to engage Lenore in conversation while de Bellefort stood close. Lenore seemed to writhe with embarrassment. Pam signaled to Vin. He cut in. As Antoine finished, he caught Vin's eyes in friendly greeting and held out his baton. Vin moved swiftly toward him. urged on by a friendly pat from Pam.

"Show them how it's done Vin," she said.

Local Hiking Club Enjoys First Trip Of 1941-42 Season

Bristling with enthusiasm and sticktights, forty-four perspiring (the girls glowed) hikers, including eight newcomers, joined in the opening hike, and the sixty-third since its organization, of the Allegheny Hiking Club yesterday afternoon. The weatherman conspired with a cooling rain during the last ten minutes of the hike, which, however, failed to dampen the ardor of the participants.

This week's trip was planned and led by F. M. Geer. The walk was a little over five miles in length from the Pittsfield-Garland road up over the Wilkie ridge road through the State Game Preserve lands between Blue Eye Run and Barton Run, finishing at Dugal, road, whence return trip was made on Route 6. Leaders of the group had brought cars around from the starting point to the end of the trip.

Additional new and interesting trips are planned for the next few weeks, and will be announced each Saturday in the Times-Mirror.

Nazi Bullets...A French Life

The tragedy is over. The Frenchman's body slumps—ropes prevent it from falling. The German officer turns away, his job done. Reprisal executions of Frenchmen are increasing in occupied France. The Nazi explanation: "Aggression against Germans."

One of the funniest incidents the national tournament at Asbu Park occurred at a table where old gentleman had pulled up chair to kibitz. Generally, kibitzing is not permitted at the national championships except in t arena; but probably the tourn ment director did not want to rude to the old fellow, or possib he had not yet seen the kibitze Only one thing is certain — th kibitzer had never played in tournament, as you will see fro the jam he got into.

He was sitting behind the Nor player. South opened the biddi with one spade, and North had problem. With the ace and o spade, he cannot bid three spad as that would indicate he h normal support. Two spad would be sign-off, and his ha is too strong for that. His hea and diamonds are good, but fi clubs to the eight — he hesitat to bid two clubs on that holding

One no trump would be a sig off. While pondering whether bid two clubs or two no trun the old gentleman arose, tho oughly disgusted, and said, "Y call these fellows experts! F five minutes he has been tryi to figure out what to do, and he has is a simple two no trun response. I'm going home."

A sequel to the story is that t declarer did not bid two no trun —he bid two clubs and the fi contract was three no trump. B the club bid made it difficult f the opponent to open that su and as a result, three no trun was made. The opponents co plained about the kibitzer's mark, but when they looked Dad, he had gone home, convinc that the proper response was t no trump.

Declarer won the opening le with dummy's king of diamon Then he cashed the ace of spad and led another. East won a led the other diamond.

It is obvious, with all hands sight, that if East had ever start the clubs, the defenders co have cashed four clubs and clarer would still have had to l a spade. But North's two-cl bid effectually discouraged E from opening the suit at eith opportunity.

SEVERAL STEPS FORWARD

Everybody talks about the beauty of the Pennsylvania hills, but as Mark Twain once said about the weather, very few people do anything about it. Of course, many people take a fleeting glance at the beautiful vistas from some of the roadways while driving up and down the valley and in the surrounding hills, but it takes a real hiker to enjoy them to the fullest.

It remained for a little group of enthusiastic hikers, who in 1939 organized the Allegheny Hiking Club, to make a concerted effort to get the people of Warren interested actively in their forest surroundings. The initation fee for this group is a stout heart and a sturdy pair of shoes, and the yearly dues are made up of the willingness to put on some old clothes and climb an occasional hill, plus the zest to buffet a winter wind and laugh at an occasional rain storm.

The members of this group include all ages from Boy and Girl Scouts to people of seventy. The sunday afternoon trips, which incidentally were resumed yesterday, are usually from five to eight miles, depending upon the contour of the country to be traversed, and last season there was an average of twenty-eight persons, with a minimum of nine one Sunday and a maximum of forty-seven on another. Altogether since the club was started there have been sixty-two trips, none of these exactly alike, covering a total distance of more than three hundred fifty miles. A map of Warren County has been made by two members of the club, showing accurately as to location and distance the hikes up to date, and it is the ambition of the club leaders to carry the total hikes to one hundred before repeating any trips.

From a modest beginning, with very limited expense to the participants, this group has created new interest in the forest areas around Warren and vicinity, and among its future plans will hike on many of the new trails marked recently by the attractive signs of the Allegheny National Forest.

From a standpoint of community interest and the healthful outdoor activity available to everyone, the Allegheny Hiking Club is to be congratulated and welcomed as an outstanding community enterprise of continuing and increasing importance.

POLITICS AND THE ARMY

The relationship between the ordinary civil and political life of an American and his life as a soldier is interesting. In the early days of the Republic, a sharp line was drawn against political activity by soldiers because of fear that a military clique might gain political power.

But great mass armies in the wars since 1860 produced a different picture. Men in France in 1918 didn't vote because it just wasn't practical. But with today's army most states now provide for voting by their soldiers. The War Department is now providing also for soldiers to run for office under certain circumstances, especially those who were in office when inducted and who wish to seek re-election.

Generally speaking it would probably not be wise to allow active soldiers to mix actively in politics. Under exceptional circumstances, however, the War Department is probably doing well to make exceptions.

PEPPING UP THE POULTRY

The great American hen is going to have to do her bit. Fifty billion eggs is the goal for 1942 in place of the mere 42,000,000,000 that rolled from the hen houses in 1941. Something will have to be done to pep up the poultry.

Electric lights in the hen houses might do it, but there's the power shortage to be considered. Just how to appeal to a hen's better nature we'll have to leave to the experts.

But it's too bad they can't be patiently told of the fate of the hens of Europe. They all wound up months ago in the stew pots of the German army.

The spotlight, so far as baseball fans are concerned, shifts this week from the war abroad, to the baseball stadiums in Brooklyn and New York.

The Jackets and Dragons are certainly providing some swell entertainment for sport fans!

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — James Melton's favorite story concerns the hillbilly who was making his first airplane flight across the country and who had just sold an original story to a movie company for an enormous sum.

The plane made a stop, and a fuel truck rushed up, filled the plane's tanks with gas, and rolled off again. The plane took off and a couple of hours later it came down again, to be met by a fuel truck that dashed up as soon as the plane had settled on the runway. This happened several times during the day, and each time a fuel truck met the plane with gas.

Finally, a passenger turned to the hillbilly and observed, "We're making terrific time, aren't we."

"Yeah," agreed the genius, "and that fuel truck ain't doing bad either."

Jim Tully, the ex-road kid, his mop of bristly red hair now grey, is in town with the manuscript of his new book—an autobiography. . . . Tommy Dorsey has opened an extensive suite of offices over The Hurricane, a nightclub on Broadway. . . . That new Sammy Kaye record, "Minka," is taken from an old Cossack love song. . . . Its strains were first utilized in 1925 by the late George Gershwin as "Don't Forget Me. Don't Forget Me." . . . There may be a war in progress, but that isn't barring foreign ships from the piers of New York's harbor. . . . On a single day last week one could see bottoms from Calcutta, Alexandria, Africa, and many of the Latin ports.

That "pale blonde with the creamy complexion and slight physique" who dances at the Bal Tabarin is said to be a direct descendent of Eli Yale, founder of Yale College. The family name is De Haven. She is the feminine half of the dance team "The Clymas," and her first name is Lauretta. Her partner is Josef.

It's a lengthening parade of familiar names that is winding along Broadway's stage alleys these days. . . . Big, tall, Sinclair Lewis is one of them. . . . "Red," as his friends know him, has paused work on his novel to direct a play. . . . He lives at an apartment in 49th street. "Red" just can't seem to throw off the acting bug, and for the life of me I can't see why a Nobel prize winner would want to become an actor. Even his last novel was about the theater. The theater undoubtedly has its charm, but will not be as a thespian or even as a director that the "Main Street" man is remembered.

Field Marshal Foch Led Allies in World War I

IN 1939, France fell before the onslaughts of the German army in 39 days. This stunning defeat was partly caused by inferior and outmoded equipment, but it was also due in large measure to the rottenness of the French general staff.

French generals were found incompetent in World War I also, but were removed before their fumbling led to complete defeat. Master tactician in the first World War and the man who eventually led the allied armies to victory was Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch (1851-1929), who was honored philatelically in the 1940 stamp above.

Foch was placed in supreme command of the allied armies March 26, 1918, following the gigantic German attacks which drove back the allied lines at Picardy jeopardizing Paris and Calais.

A WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Very shortly now, a million or more boys, their families, kinfolks and girl friends will cock their ears at a little room in the west wing of the Capitol, for there a subcommittee of the Senate military affairs committee will hold hearings on whether soldiers' pay should be raised.

If you want to bet, bet that it will be—because the straws in the wind are blowing in that direction.

When Sen. Lister Hill, chairman of the subcommittee, whip of the democratic side of the Senate, and one of the chief administration spokesmen on military affairs, introduced the resolution which has brought about the hearing, he included in it that the investigation was to be held "with a view to" increasing army pay.

When the draft extension bill was passed, the pay increase amendment came out of the anti-administration ranks. There was a marked absence of debate on the floor opposing the increase of $10 a month for all men in service a year or more. When it came to a vote, party lines crumbled and the amendment went through.

The Question: How Much?

THERE already are two bills before the senate providing for the increase and the report of the committee probably will be based on one of these.

One, by Sen. Sheridan Downey, California democrat, would increase the Army pay $30 a month—but with the proviso that the increase would be paid the men monthly after their discharge from the service. Sen. Ed Johnson, Colorado democrat, has a bill which would increase army pay 25 per cent (officers excepted).

Senator Hill makes no bones about his views. He says soldiers' pay is low and should be increased.

"The question," he says, "is how much, and that is the reason we want to hold hearings and gather information from officials of the War and Navy departments, the Marine corps and the Coast Guard."

Bonuses Possible

ARMY pay now starts at $21 a month for privates with less than four months' training. After four months, unless a man has shown himself unfit or completely inefficient, his pay climbs to $30. This is known as "seventh grade" and if a private stays in that class for eight months more, he receives $40.

But this is only the pay scale for "buck privates." Privates, first class, get $36; corporals, $54; sergeants, $60; staff sergeants, $72; first sergeants, $84; and master sergeants, $126. In each case, of course, there is $10 more for all men who have served more than a year. Add to that the bonuses, ranging from $3 to $30 a month for specialists (electricians, mechanics, radio operators, etc.). There also are bonuses for decorations and awards.

You Still Won't Get Rich

MEN in the armed forces also get food, clothing, medical and dental attention without charge. There are other compensations, such as free entertainment, special rates for movies, low railroad fares.

All of this doesn't mean that the Army can dispense with that ancient ditty, "You'll never get rich." At least, I haven't heard of any draftees planning to retire on their savings from Army pay.

But if Congress goes through, as some are convinced with another hike in Army pay, the fighting game in the already best-paid force in the world is going to be getting itself into competition, from a remunerative standpoint, with some of our better known underpaid professions.

Miss Doris C. Nelson And Joseph Pastrick Married at Sheffield

Sheffield, Sept. 29—Miss Doris Christine Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Nelson, Dunham street, and Joseph Pastrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pastrick, Sr., South Main street, were united in marriage in a pretty wedding ceremony performed at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in St. Anthony's church. Rev. M. J. Macken, pastor of the church, officiated.

Music for the processional and the recessional was played by Catherine Eustice, church organist, who also played the accompaniments for Miss Evelyn Norlin, who sang "O Precious Love," "Ave Maria" and "I Love You Truly."

Escorted to the flower-banked altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a figured white satin gown. Her finger-tip veil suspended from a Juliet cap of pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

Attending her as maid of honor was Miss Anna Holup, of Ludlow, a cousin of the bridegroom. Miss Holup wore a gown of yellow organdy and carried a bouquet of lavendar and yellow roses.

Mrs. Nelson, mother of the bride, wore black with white accessories, and Mrs. Pastrick, the bridegroom's mother, wore navy blue. Both wore corsages of white asters.

George Pado, of Donora, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man for Mr. Pastrick.

The wedding reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, with about 50 guests in attendance. Luncheon, served at noon for the members and relatives of the two families, was followed in early evening by a dinner for them and a number of invited guests.

The bride is a graduate of the Sheffield High School, Class of 1938, and is employed in the office of Dr. R. L. Taylor. Mr. Pastrick, who graduated from the local school in 1937, is employed by the Pennsylvania Bottle Company.

Rivers Teeming With Life

Sit on the wharf of a busy river front and watch boats come and go with their cargoes of food and supplies. But, look through a microscope into an artery of the human body, and you see more activity than on any river in China or the world. The red and white corpuscles of the blood act as little boats, carrying oxygen, nourishment and protection, to the most remote tissues of the body. The food you eat and the air you breathe must be distributed by these little ships.

Accumulated wastes of the body would soon poison you, if these little cell "boats" did not carry them through the veins to the lungs, kidneys and sweat glands, to be eliminated.

The "blood platelets," plasma and white cells of the blood constantly circulate, ready to pounce on the slightest pin prick, close it up and form a barricade against infection.

Keep these "rivers of life" in your body teeming with rich, healthy blood, filled with cell boats in good repair and carrying full cargoes.

Leading Contralto Of Metropolitan To Sing For Philomel

Members of the Philomel Club are busy with plans for opening the club's new season, which will mark the golden jubilee of its organization as The Warren Piano Club.

The first public event to mark the celebration of the anniversary will be the presentation of Doris Doe, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, in recital at the Woman's Club on Wednesday, October 29.

Singing 56 roles and appearing almost nightly during the 16 weeks of the Metropolitan's New York season, Doris Doe, famed contralto of the company, can lay claim to being the group's busiest artist.

She sings all of the contralto roles in the Wagnerian repertoire, as well as most of the charcterizations in the French and Italian divisions of her voice range. She has been with the Metropolitan 10 years, learning two or three new roles each season.

Miss Doe received her musical education in Chicago, New York and Dresden, Germany, where she went in the midst of her training to master the Wagnerian roles. She was contracted for the Metropolitan by Gatti-Casazza after being heard by the late Arturo Bodansky.

She has been soloist with practically every symphonic organization in this country, as well as in London, Paris, Dresden, Berlin, Cologne and Monte Carlo. She plans to resume her recital work in November with an initial concert at Town Hall, New York City, her first in several years.

Prominent Wheeling, W. Va., Girl Becomes Bride Of Playwright Lawrence Riley in Hollywood, Cal.

MISS VIRGINIA SWEENEY

MR. LAWRENCE H. RILEY

Announcement has been received here that Miss Edith Virginia Sweeney, of Highland Park, W. Va., became the bride of Lawrence Hugh Riley, of 511 Fourth avenue, this city, on Wednesday, September 24, in a simple service read in the latter's Hollywood Calif., residence.

Mr. Riley, successful playwright and short story writer, has been in Hollywood for the past several months, engaged in writing for the motion picture industry.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Riley left for a short wedding trip along the Pacific coast, to be at home after October 15 at 7906 Hillside venue.

The bride, member of a family prominent for several generations in the industrial, financial, civic and social development of Wheeling, is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Espey Bell Sweeny. She was graduated from Triadelphia high school and later from Briarcliffe at Briarcliffe Manor, N. Y. She studied at the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts for three years, the third year being spent abroad in intensive study in England, France and Italy.

She is unusually talented and has been active in community, civic and social affairs. She is a member of the Junior League of Wheeling, Inc., the Sprig Twig of Ohio Valley General Hospital, Garden Study Club and the Drama Reading Club. She is a member of the board of trustees of Oglebay Institute, and of the Oglebay Mansion-Museum Association.

Mr. Riley is the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James DeCourcey Riley, of Bradford and New York. After graduation from the Asheville School in Asheville, N. C., he entered Princeton University, leaving a few months later to enlist in the medical corps of the United States Army. After serving 18 months in World War I, he turned to newspaper work in the east and later went to Wheeling.

During his three years in that city, he wrote and had published many short stories. Turning his talents to writing plays, he authored "Personal Appearance," which opened on Broadway in the fall of 1935 and ran for 500 performances. Two road companies of the production toured the country, and the original New York cast played a six-months run in Chicago, later touring other major cities.

"Personal Appearance" was made into a motion picture for Mae West, under the title, "Go West, Young Man," and he was commissioned to write or collaborate on a number of major screen stories. One of these was the elaborately staged musical starring Zorina. He spent last winter in New York supervising the production of his second play, "Return Engagement," which was premiered by the Warren Players Club. He expects to continue his screen writings in the coming winter, residing in Hollywood.

MAIN SCORES ONLY TOUCHDOWN; ROSEQUIST BOOTS SECOND GOAL OF SEASON; CHAMPS IMPROVED

Nobody was disappointed by the Red Jacket-Springdale A. A. fracas at Russell Field yesterday, unless perhaps the invaders were a bit downcast in losing, though the battle they put up against the western Pennsylvania champs as Warren won a 10-2 victory was one marveled at by 1200 fans who attended the game.

Springdale held the Red Jackets to a lone touchdown and backed them up to their own goal line in the third period, where a bad center cost Warren a safety and two points.

The lone six-pointer came just after the second quarter opened, when a third down pass to Bob Main, home on furlough from the army air corps, from "Lefty" Check was good for the score and fourteen yards. Harry Rosequist booted the point, his fourth successive point of the season without a miss, and the Jackets held the upper hand the rest of the way.

In the final stanza "Rosey" again used his toe in splitting the uprights with his second field goal of the season from the fifteen yard line.

Outside of those three scores the remainder of the game was a defensive masterpiece with a surprisingly strong Springdale club staving off drive upon drive before the Red Jackets could move close enough to the visitors' goal line to threaten scoring.

The distance punting by Johnny Howells, Springdale quarterback, kept Warren away from the promised land most of the time, and the determined invaders used the air to advantage in turning in an exhibition that won't soon be forgotten by the many followers of the Jackets.

Evenly matched in weight and ability, the two teams struck at each other time and again but couldn't penetrate effectively into the defended ground of the foe.

Four fumbles hurt the scoring opportunities of the locals, two times being on their way to a possible score only to lose the ball via that route. Each time Howells would punt out of danger and the Jackets would be forced to start all over again.

Several new faces studded the lineup of the Jackets in the game.

SHEFFIELD HIGH TROUNCES KANE BY 11-0 COUNT

Sheffield, Sept. 29—Outperforming their opponents in every department of the game and forcing and taking advantage of the breaks throughout, the S. H. S. Wolverines defeated the Kane Hi Wolves Saturday afternoon at Kane, 11 to 0.

Sheffield's first victory over a major opponent in several seasons, it also was the local's first victory over the Hilltoppers, who are coached this season by Tom Drummond, formerly coach here, since his Sheffied team of 1937 turned the trick. The victory, fifth for Sheffield in the series, which began in 1924, was a great boost for the team and Coach Joe Massa, popular mentor, who succeeded Drummond as local coach.

Included in the samewhat odd total of 11 points recorded by the Wolverines, were 2 safeties, a touchdown and the extra point.

The punting and all-around playing of Mike Steffan, who had been kept out of the opening game here two weeks ago on doctor's orders, and the fiery, aggressive brand of ball played by the entire Wolverine team were outstanding in the contest.

The game was witnessed by a large crowd of fans, including a sizeable delegation from Sheffield. An argument broke out among some of the fans and caused a mild flurry of excitement as the game neared its end. As a result, two Sheffield young men were taken in custody by the Kane police. They were released later after paying fines assessed by a Kane magistrate.

YOUNGSVILLE HI TOPS FALCONER BY 13-6 SCORE

The Youngsville Eagles turned in a fine grid exhibition at Falconer Saturday trimming their hosts 13-6 with two touchdowns, one in the first and one in the final quarter.

The first score for the winners came when Howe intercepted a Falcon pass on the homesters' 49 yard line and returned it to the three where he fumbled. A Falconer player attempted to recover but the ball rolled over the goal line where it was recovered by Colbert for the touchdown.

A pass from Howe to Clark in the final chapter netted the Eagles thirty-five yards and their final six pointer, and Dunkle booted the point from placement.

Falconer's only score came on a 20 yard aerial from Walker to Benson.

Next week the Eagles battle Otto Township at Duke Center and the charges of Stockdale and Passaro will be after their third win of the season.

Louis, Nova Fight For Championship

HEAVY KING IS 13-5 FAVORITE TO WIN BY K. O.

BY GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—Joe Louis, of the blasting fists, and Lou Nova, a rugged, courageous specimen from California, clash at 10 o'clock (EST) tonight at the Polo Grounds in a 15-round heavyweight championship fight that promises to leave 60,000 spectators limp.

This is one battle that scarcely can miss. Opinion is divided sharply on the probable winner, but there seems no doubt in anyone's mind that it will be a cruel, spectacular engagement while it lasts.

This is one of the few times that the big Negro champion has met a man his equal in physical equipment, fighting heart and absolute confidence since he won the title from Jim Braddock in 1937. Offhand, only Max Schmeling among the many who have challenged Louis and taken their beatings appeared on the surface to have as good a chance as Nova against the famous Bomber.

Nova belongs in there tonight on his record. He knocked out Max Baer twice, among other things, and had Tommy Farr on the verge of a knockout in the closing rounds of their scrap. Only some peculiar interference by the referee saved Tommy, who only shortly before that had breezed 15 rounds against Louis.

The one time Nova ever was beaten as a professional was the night he climbed into the ring, a sick man, against Tony Galento in Philadelphia. He got it good that night, what with his illness, Tony's rough tactics and a referee who looked on with amused tolerance.

"But I learned something that night," he says now. "I thought I could whip any man in the world, even if I was half-sick. I know now that it can't be done. This time I'm in the most perfect physical condition of my life, and I won't muff the chance."

The bookmakers do not share Nova's confidence in his destiny. At last check-up they were offering a bonus of 13 to 5 that he catches a licking from Louis. Anyone wanting to bet on the champion was asked to put up $15 to win $5. It is one of the biggest betting fights, they say, since the days of Jack Dempsey.

New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—The boisterous Brooklyn Dodgers and staid New York Yankees focused their full attention on the World Series today, even if a lot of this town's sports fans did not.

Wyatt

Since the baseball classic does not get underway until Wednesday, the sports spotlight was turned on tonight's heavyweight title fight between Joe Louis and Lou Nova at the Polo Grounds, right across the Harlem river from Yankee Stadium.

But the champions of the National and American Leagues went about the business of preparing for their own world's championship struggle. Both teams scheduled workouts at the Stadium, and the Dodgers arranged to ride in a late-afternoon parade in Brooklyn as the borough officially and elaborately celebrated the Brooks' first pennant in 21 years.

Ruffing

This monster demonstration was expected to excite the Dodgers' fabulous followers to such peaks of enthusiasm that the entire squad of Brooklyn players moved into a Manhattan hotel last night in order to get some rest and relaxation before the big show starts. The same expectation that Brooklyn's baseball fanatics wouldn't be able to wait

CHICAGO BEARS TRIP GREEN BAY IN LOOP SCRAP

BY TOM SILER

Chicago, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Chicago Bears required only 50 fleeting seconds to prove that they are ready to defend their prized professional football title against all comers.

Playing before a sellout throng of 24,876 at Green Bay, the Bears rolled up a 15-point edge only to see the Packers pass them dizzy and take a 17-15 lead. Then came the payoff. The massive Chicagoans retaliated with the vital touchdown in 50 seconds. George

Pass defense? What pass defense? Not having the answer to the latter question caused the Warren High school Dragons plenty of trouble at Titusville Saturday as they were forced to go all out in winning a 25-19 victory over a Rocket team that took to the air to belittle the charges of Coach J. B. Leidig.

Throughout the entire first half and the fourth quarter the Dragons played ball that wasn't on a par with that of playground calibre, not being able to knockdown a pass, and allowing the Brown and Gold to pile up quite a score and also a huge amount of yardage.

The Rockets jumped off in the first quarter with a pass from Don Sharp, one of two lads in the game with that name, to their speedy colored end, Bill Jones, good for thirty yards and a touchdown.

Warren couldn't score until the second canto when a fourth down pass from Bobby Sedon to Warren's Don Sharp knotted the score. Salerno hit the line for the point giving the Dragons a margin, but by half time the Titusville pass combination of Sharp and Jones had added another score, also a point, to keep the score locked at the half time 13-13. Warren scored their second touchdown in the second chapter on a plunge from the one yard line by Sharp before the second Rocket score, but couldn't hold the lead.

Playing smarter ball in the third period, and the only time in which they really played like the Blue and White team they're supposed to be, the Dragons scored two more counters with Dick Kifer intercepting a pass and racing fifty yards to a score, and Salerno hitting the line after a neat drive put the ball on the Titusville three yard line, to go over for Warren's last tally.

Reserves were responsible for allowing the Rockets to add up nineteen points by letting a pass go over their heads late in the final quarter as Carlson walked down the sidelines for a few yards and into the end zone, completing the sixteen yard touchdown aerial.

Shortly thereafter the game ended, with the Dragons leaving the field victorious but having learned the valuable lesson that over-confidence always spells trouble. As far as the light but smart Titusville team was concerned, they had scored a moral victory in adding up a higher total against the Dragons than has any other opponent so far this season.

Next week the local schoolboys will be in for another dose of sky football, as a none too strong Oil City eleven attempts to score an upset by whipping the Leidigmen. The game will be next to the last showing the Dragons will make on the sod at Russell Field this year, and fans will be expecting them to give a much more creditable performance than that ragged battle this past weekend.

No Blue and White player stood out in the fray, and the real stars of the game were Titusville's Don Sharp and his pass receiver, Bill Jones, the two being nearly responsible by themselves, for giving Warren such a battle after being rated as rank underdogs before the contest.

SPORT SPATTERINGS

JAMESTOWN, MEADVILLE, WARREN TROUBLES OVER NIGHT GRID GAMES WASN'T SERIOUS; LOCAL RULING PROHIBITS NIGHT BATTLES

Warren High School was the topic, and nothing to rave over either, of a paragraph in Johnny Nelson's "Sport Corner," in which the veteran Bradford Era sports editor took it upon himself to add a little something to the wrinkles in Warren's rounding out their dates with Meadville and Jamestown for this campaign and whether or not the games were to be night contests. While Johnny had it slightly mixed up, there was a little discussion over the dates, but here's the real story, from local sources that are authoritative. Jamestown didn't care whether they played night or day, and it was mainly up to Warren who had to decide upon the afternoon date when the school board voted against any more night gridironing for the Blue and White. Meadville wanted a night game, playing the rest of their slate under the arcs, but Warren, having to refuse this game also if it were to be night, took into consideration that in November, when the game is to be played, weather may be disagreeable to play even in the day, and even worse at night.

While the Bulldogs favored the arc light, the game was finally set for the daytime and there should have been little more said. But where the schools left off, sports writers resumed, and we finally get our opportunity to cap the issue by explaining it once and for all. As far as the team goes, it would play any opponent any time on the foe's own field and under the conditions of the enemy. That's the policy of the Dragons. But when the school fathers see the subject differently, they have the last word and what they decide is the ruling which the Blue and White must follow. Next year Bradford and Oil City will seek night games, and again the issue will be raised. While this corner is all for night football in many ways, there's little that we can do, judging from the small amount of success met with by our predecessors in this pillar. So patience is golden in this case, and maybe things will shape up by next year. But there's little danger that either rivalry will be cancelled because of the local ruling, and we don't consider the Dragons old-fashioned as Johnny hinted just because they don't play at night, and we won't until the majority of games are seen during a season under the mazdas.

There being little on which to comment favorably concerning the local schoolboys in their weekend showing against Titusville, the orchids are sent today to Coach Joe Massa and his Sheffield High school Wolverines who whipped the Kane Wolves under the guidance of Tom Drummond, former Sheffield coach, on Saturday by a 11-0 score. With only twenty-one players in Orange and Black garb, and fourteen of these being the maximum of the Massa squad that could really be rated in the class with the Wolves in regard to weight, Sheffield proved that a good little team is better than a mediocre big team by trouncing the hilltoppers, and decisively. Two safeties in the first half, something very odd when it's seldom you even see one, show what kind of ball the Massamen played, and the many fans who saw the tilt in their consensus stated that the story could be told in four parts. Sheffield merely was a well drilled squad which outplayed, outcharged, and outsmarted the Wolves, and was the more alert of the two elevens throughout the fracas.

we would not try to tell you that borrowing money to pay off old bills would put you out of debt, but there are several advantages in doing this:

1. It will free you from worry and possible loss of credit.
2. Making one easy monthly payment is considerably more convenient than trying to scatter your pay over several directions at once.
3. By having one easy payment to make each month you will have most of your salary left to pay current expenses and save.
4. The reasonable interest rate would be far less expensive to you than the worry and nerve-strain caused by the task of trying to keep all creditors satisfied at once.

Patrolman John Doyle said she told him she was awakened by the efforts of two men to break down her apartment door.

Doyle recounted that Mrs. Miley told him the men asked her where the receipts from Saturday night's dance were located. She told them, whereupon one of the men struck her in the head with a window weight, knocking her down, and then fired three shots into her body.

Miss Miley rushed from her room to lend aid to her mother, Doyle reported, and was shot down. Her pajama clad body was found in the hallway.

Harrigan theorized that the shooting and robbery may have been committed by persons familiar with the set-up at the swanky building and grounds. He said the electric switches had been turned off and the telephone lines disserviced.

The only clues available, Harrigan said, were two buttons from a man's coat, three slugs from a .32 caliber automatic and several fingerprints on the wall near the Mileys' apartment.

Miss Miley, a prominent golfer for the past decade, has won numerous tournaments, including the women's western open, southern and trans-Mississippi. She was champion of Kentucky six times.

and the additions turned in impressive showings before the critical eyes of the spectators. Harry Galla and "Sax" Sachi, both former Erie Tech stars and the former also having played with Western Reserve, saw action in the game and turned in creditable performances.

The work of Bob Main won the approval of the fans and the stellar end, valuable both offensively and defensively, will be with the local pros next week and plans to make arrangements to play with them on weekends thereafter.

Others in the local lineup who were outstanding were Joe Bizzaro, Harold Brown, "Bullet Bill" Graham, Art Giancotti, Walt Fredericks, Rosequist and Harry Ganza, with the remainder of the team all playing capable ball.

It was the best showing the local crew has made to date, and the improvement they showed from last week's game brought favorable comment.

Next week the Red and Yellow charges of Paris and Reese move up against what promises to be their hardest game of the season, that with the Trafford Alumni at Russell Field. Last year the champs won a 7-0 victory over the coming aggregation but Trafford has added strength this season and already owns a 13-0 win over the Pace A. C., which held the Jackets to a 10-7 score.

And the capable Pace club will return to play the locals at Corry a week from Wednesday night in the first of four night games in that city. The date is definite now, and other opponents will be booked to follow the opening date down there.

till opening day to set out for the series prompted police to assign a small detail of patrolmen to Yankee Stadium last night, 48 hours ahead of their previous plans.

The 28,000 unreserved and bleacher seats still available at the stadium will not go on sale till Wednesday morning but a line of fans is expected to start forming at almost any hour now.

All box and reserved seats at the stadium have been sold out for several weeks, and a crowd of about 70,000, largest in series history, is expected to see the first game. A crowd of similar size will see the second game in the stadium Thursday and then the scene will shift to Ebbets Field, which seats only 32,000, for contests Friday, Saturday and Sunday. If sixth and seventh games are necessary, they will be played at the stadium next Monday and Wednesday.

All games will start at 1:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) except the Sunday contest, which will not begin until 2 p. m. because of New York law.

It is agreed generally that the opening hurlers will be 33-year-old Whit Wyatt for the Dodgers, a righthander with 22 victories, and 36-year-old Charley (Red) Ruffing for the Yankees, a righthander with 15 triumphs.

Chicago Bears Trip Green Bay in Loop Scrap

(From Page Seven)

McAfee returned the kickoff 51 yards to Green Bay's 49. Bill Osmanski tore off 23 yards, Ray Nolting picked up 13 and McAfee floated around left end for the score. Later Bob Snyder connected for his second field goal of the game, to clinch the outcome, 25 to 17.

The Giants, rated as the team to beat for the eastern title, spoiled the Redskins' 1941 league debut winning 17 to 10 before 35,677 Washington fans.

Jock Sutherland's Brooklyn club kept pace with the Giants by defeating Philadelphia, 24 to 13, Saturday night. Referee William H. (Red) Friesell suffered a broken leg when a Brooklyn player accidentally ploughed into him.

Detroit and the Chicago Cardinals engaged in a battle of frustration Saturday night, a 14-14 deadlock which left each team still looking for its first league victory of 1941.

Brooklyn has the toughest assignment this week, meeting the Washington eleven in the Capital Sunday while the Giants are invading Pittsburgh and the Bears play Cleveland. In the fourth Sabbath battle Green Bay and the Cardinals meet at Milwaukee.

Germany Decrees Civil Emergency in Bohemia-Moravia

POINTS IN SICILY AND MAINLAND TARGETS OF R.A.F. ASSAULTS

Great Britain and Italy reported a violent exchange of blows in air and sea fighting today, with RAF bombers raiding nine Fascist cities overnight in the heaviest assaults of the war there, while Premier Mussolini's High Command announced a smashing nine-hour attack on a British convoy in the Mediterranean.

Informed quarters in London hinted that the RAF's all-out offensive, striking with the heaviest possible bomb loads, might be the start of a "bomb Italy out of the war" campaign.

It was the 220th raid of the war on Italy.

Italians countered with reports of a devastating aerial attack on the British Mediterranean fleet.

Three British cruisers and at least three merchant ships were sunk by Italian torpedo planes, the Fascist High Command said.

On the Russian war front, the Berlin radio quoted Baghdad dispatches as saying British troops were rumored en route to reinforce Russia's Red armies in the Caucasus.

Two divisions of British troops were said to have left Baghdad for the north.

Simultaneously, an official British communique said Britain's highest commanders in Africa and Asia had worked out "full details of cooperation" regarding "the anti-Axis front now established from Syria through Iraq and Iran to the left flank of the Russian armies."

The British leaders, Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander in India, and Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auckinleck, Middle East commander, worked out the program in a two-day session in Baghdad, it was disclosed.

The Italian High Command acknowledged a toll of 11 persons killed and 55 wounded as RAF bombers pounded four Italian mainland cities, four in Sicily and the island city of Rhodes. In addition, two persons were killed in blackouts.

London dispatches said the RAF left great fires raging in Genoa and at other points in northern Italy.

The RAF avoided Rome—despite earlier expectations that the Fascist capital might be bombed in reprisal for an Axis attack on Cairo, Holy City of the Moslem world—but showered high-explosive bombs an incendiaries on Genoa, Spezia, Turin and Savona Marina on the Italian mainland. Some of the casualties were at a fifth mainland city, Milan, but the injuries and fatalities were from anti-aircraft shells and traffic accidents.

In the Russian campaign, now in its 15th week, Soviet dispatches reported the rout of two German-Allied Rumanian infantry brigades in bitter fighting on the southern (Ukraine) front, with more than 2,500 Rumanians killed, and declared that Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red armies on the central front had recaptured 10 more villages in a drive from Yelnya to Smolensk.

ROME REPORTS NUMBER BRITISH VESSELS SUNK

By the Associated Press

Rome, Sept. 29—In a sudden burst of violent air and sea fighting, Italian torpedo planes have sunk three British cruisers and at least three merchantmen in a nine-hour attack on a Mediterranean convoy and the British have answered with an all-out bombing offensive against Italy, the High Command reported today.

Wave after wave of Italian planes pounced on the British convoy sailing eastward from Gibraltar Saturday, keeping up the attack on it despite fierce sky fighting in which six British planes were shot flaming into the sea and eight Italian planes were lost, the High Command said.

The British, it said, raided four cities on the Italian mainland, four in Sicily and blasted at the Island of Rhodes and the North African coast last night, one of the most intensive air raid incursions the Italians have experienced.

(An Admiralty communique in London earlier said that a British Mediterranean convoy which was attacked by Italian planes had reached its destination with only one merchant ship lost and one destroyer damaged.

(The Admiralty had no comment to make on these later Italian claims.

(The merchant ship was damaged too badly to continue and was sunk by the British themselves, the Admiralty communique said, and the destroyer's damage was not

Advices reaching London said that German warplanes were violently blasting railroads and highways on the Crimea peninsula, key to control of Black Sea waters, but that Nazi troops were making little if any progress in attempts to cross the four-mile-wide Perekop isthmus.

Adolf Hitler's high command, silent on the Crimea operations, reported that German and Italian troops had out-flanked and destroyed three Soviet divisions—about 45,000 men—in a battle northeast of the Nazi-held city of Dnieperopetrovsk.

The high command said the Russians, caught in swampy terrain, suffered heavy and bloody losses, with 13,000 Red troops taken prisoner so far.

Premier Mussolini's high command asserted that torpedo-firing Italian planes sank three British cruisers in an attack on a convoy in the central Mediterranean. A battleship, another large ship, a destroyer and six smaller ships also were damaged, the Italians reported.

Moscow reported that seven German ships had been sunk or damaged, including a cruiser, three destroyers, two transports, and a tanker, while the Germans countered with a claim that Nazi shore batteries set a Russian cruiser afire and that dive-bombers hit a Soviet battleship near Kronstadt naval base, guarding the sea approach to Leningrad.

In the grim back-stage struggle of the war theater, Germany clamped down with eight firing-squad executions in an attempt to crush bitter manifestations of revolt in the conquered countries.

Two more persons were put to death in Paris for possessing forbidden weapons, Berlin announced, and six were shot in the German protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, in former Czechoslovakia.

SCHOOLS OPEN IN COUNTIES HIT BY POLIO SPREAD

Youngsters in Dauphin, York, Cumberland, Lebanon, Schuylkill and Montgomery Return to Their Classes; Two Others Are Closed

VICTIM 50 YEARS OLD

Harrisburg, Sept. 29.—(AP)—School bells rang for the first time today in all or part of nine Pennsylvania counties where the infantile paralysis outbreak has struck hardest this year but two communities closed their schools because of new cases.

While youngsters in Dauphin, York, Cumberlan, Lebanon, Schuylkill and Montgomery counties, and parts of Lancaster, Cambria and Northumberland counties, were gathering up their books, authorities at Reading—where 17,000 public school pupils are affected—and Prospects Park, a Philadelphia suburb, closed their schools.

Reading will close down for a week; West Reading and Wyomissing boroughs for two weeks and Kenhorst until further notice, in what officials described as a precautionary measure to prevent spread of the disease.

Prospect Park's institutions were ordered closed for at least two weeks by the board of health a few hours after the district's first case was reported yesterday. Three-year-old Ralph Teeter, whose family moved east from Indianapolis four months ago, was stricken. He has a school-age sister. The closing affects about 700 pupils.

York county, center of the outbreak, reported three more cases over the weekend, bringing the total there to 100 since January 1. The 100th victim was Charles Mumma, 50, oldest victim thus far reported in the county.

As far as the state was con-

SLAYING OF GOLFER BAFFLING

Officials Investigating the Hold-up Murder of 27-Year-Old Nationally Famous Player, and Serious Wounding of Her Mother at Aristocratic Lexington Country Club, Stumped in Effort to Track Down Assailants

TRAGEDY IS TERMED A CASE OF ROBBERY

Sub for 1st para—SLAYING.. ..

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 29—(AP)—Police questioned employes of the fashionable Lexington country club and several other persons today as they sought the gunmen who killed Marion Miley, 27, nationally known golfer, and critically wounded her mother, Mrs. Elsa Ego Miley, 50, in their apartment at the club yesterday.

Chief of Police Austin B. Price said, however, there were no suspects under surveillance and that "we haven't gotten anywhere so far."

Mrs. Miley, who was shot three times, was in a critical condition after an emergency operation yesterday to remove the bullets.

Chief Price said a money bag containing approximately $60 had been found in a locked closet in her bedroom.

Mrs. Miley, manager of the club, had told police before she lapsed into unconsciousness that two men had shot her and her daughter after demanding reciepts from a dance held at the club Saturday night. She said the receipts totalled $145. Earlier police had found $60 in the club office.

Price said the finding of the money had not changed his theory that robbery was the motive for the crime.

Harrigan called the crime "probably the most sensational murder case" on record in the Bluegrass, while Investigation Superintendent Guy W. Mauphin termed the tragedy "a plain case of robbery," possibly committed by amateur bandits.

The Philadelphia born Miss Miley was shot through the head and chest, and her mother, Mrs. Fred Miley, 50, was hit three times in the abdomen, after being roused early yesterday morning by two robbers at their country club apartment demanding location of the money.

Mrs. Miley, club manager, stumbled through the darkened white-columned building to a sanatorium 300 yards away from where police were called.

RAIN NEEDED TO RELIEVE FOREST FIRE SITUATION

Due to the continued drought period over the last few weeks, an early fall forest fire season started yesterday. Fires were reported in various parts of Pennsylvania. In the Cornplanter District, of which Warren county is a part, four fires occurred.

The worst was in a new hemlock slashing on Yankee Bush, three miles north of Starbrick. It burned eight acres and caused considerable damage to the cut timber that had not been logged off the area. Smaller fires burned in various parts of the district. One was at the extension of Glade avenue, in Glade township, another was on the north side of Brown run in Mead township and another three miles north of Garland on the Corry road.

Some of the key towers were manner over the weekend and all towers will be manned on October 1st or shortly thereafter.

Standings of Contenders in Baby Contest To Be Printed on Tuesday

Honor Roll Appearing for First Time Tomorrow Will Show Names of Thirty Leading Infants in Unusual Campaign

Tomorrow will mark the first publication of the standing of the leading candidates in the Warren Times-Mirror's Favorite Baby Election and Trade Expansion in which $2,000 in cash prizes and two huge engraved gold cups will be awarded.

The Honor Roll, to be printed for the first time tomorrow, will show the thirty leading babies' names. The Honor Roll will be published each Tuesday, and will show the standings of the leaders from week to week.

The editor of the baby election is at loss to understand why more babies have not been entered in the novel event; there is no cost of any kind in naming a baby boy or girl for the signal honor of being elected The Favorite Baby of the community, and with the first prize of $500 in cash and the huge loving cup as attendant honors, it seems there would be babies from every town near Warren vieing for the place, the election editor declared yesterday.

Pictures are taken and published free of charge—and every baby under six years of age, residing in Warren or anywhere in the trading territory, is eligible, except the children of merchants cooperating with the newspaper and their employees.

Tomorrow will see the first list of entrants; the books of enrollment are still open—if you haven't

PITTSBURGH IS MAKING EFFORT TO PURIFY AIR

Smoke-Elimination Ordinance Adopted in July Becomes Effective October 1 for Industrial and Commercial Establishments

PENALTY IS $100 A DAY

Pittsburgh, Sept. 29—(AP)—The nation's steel capital, after being twitted about its smoke for 150 years, embarks Wednesday on a new attempt to rid its atmosphere of soot.

A smoke-elimination ordinance adopted by council in July becomes effective October 1 for industrial and commercial establishments. Regulations will extend gradually during a two-year period to embrace all Pittsburgh.

Beginning Wednesday, factories, mills, store buildings, laundries and apartment buildings will be prohibited from emitting smoke containing more than 40 per cent soot. Furnaces installed in homes henceforth must be of a smoke-elimination type or burn smokeless fuel.

Railroad locomotives and steamboats on the city's three rivers will be partially regulated now and more strictly next year. Under the final restrictions, they will be allowed to give off dense smoke no more than one minute in any hour. Violators will be subject to a fine of $100 a day.

Processed coal and coke, which would meet with the regulations, cost $2 to $4 more a ton than the widely-used bituminous.

Civic clubs are working to get "full community support for the ordinance and see that it is efficiently enforced." A similar ordinance was adopted in 1916, but as time went by it was rarely enforced.

The new law, based upon one which rid St. Louis of smoke, was demanded by health authorities, civic organizations, municipal officials and newspapers. The city health department said that in 1940 industrial and residental chimneys poured out enough soot to cover each house and lot with 500 pounds of it.

BATTLE LOST BY 'IRON LUNG KID'

Pittsburgh, Sept. 29—(AP)—Jimmy Colton, 18-year-old "iron lung kid" acclaimed for his courage, has lost his two-year battle for life. Stricken with infantile paralysis in 1939, he died last night.

BOARD PLANNING MEDIATION OF THREE DISPUTES

By the Associated Press

Birmingham steel mills of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company resumed production today after CIO Steel Workers ended a short-lived strike, but labor controversies kept mediators busy in other sectors of the defense production front.

Settlement of the Birmingham strike followed soon after removal of 500 Alabama state guardsmen from about company plants. Grievances at the Ensley plant of the company, where the strike began Friday night, will be negotiated, with any wage adjustments retroactive to Sept. 1.

The National Defense Mediation Board arranged to revote much of its attention during the next ten days to three disputes involving 80,000 workers in the coal, shipping and aircraft industries.

The board will begin hearings tomorrow on a seaman's strike for war bonuses on ships sailing into dangerous waters.

The board has set Thursday for hearings on a threatened strike of about 22,000 employes of the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, San Diego, in a dispute over wages.

Also pending before the board is the dispute between operators of captive mines, owned principally

Dad Suicides After He Sees Daughters Smoke

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A 55-year old widower, who had reared three daughters, killed himself last night. Detective Daniel O'Mahoney said, because he saw the girls smoking cigarettes.

The father, Elia Taddi, was found dead of a bullet wound in the heart at his home. A pistol lay nearby.

O'Mahoney said the daughters, Rose, 24, Adeline, 22, and Dolores, 20, whom Taddi had reared through their 'teens, related their father had been distressed when he saw them smoking yesterday in a store.

"He never suspected we smoke," one of the girls said.

MODIFICATION OF NEUTRALITY ACT IS DEBATED

Some Legislative Sources Predict Forthcoming Message May Be Limited to Request for Authority to Arm Merchantmen

NO DECISION REACHED

Washington, Sept. 29—(AP)—Congress appeared convinced today that President Roosevelt intended to request the power to arm merchant shipping, but there was disagreement as to whether he would seek a further modification of the neutrality act so that American vessels might operate to belligerent ports or in waters now prohibited as "combat areas."

Some legislative sources predicted that the president's forthcoming message would limit itself to a request for authority to put guns on merchantmen, because any proposal for more extensive revision would arouse formidable opposition.

Other prominent legislators, said they believed that the message would ask both the arming of ships and the elimination of restrictions which belligerent ports and "combat areas."

There were several administration lieutenants on capitol hill who claimed they could count on enough votes in both house and senate for any revision of the neutrality act that Mr. Roosevelt might recommend. Those in this group argued that there was no reason to temporize with a piecemeal amendment of the law.

The final decision in the matter was expected to be reached tomorrow when the president confers with legislative leaders. The White House message on the neutrality act is looked for about Wednesday or Thursday.

Several legislative leaders were reported ready to recommend that revision proposals be limited to the arming of merchant ships.

Czech Government in Exile in London Announces That Six Persons Have Been Put to Death on Orders of New Reich Protectorate, Including General Joseph Bly, Deputy Commander at Bratislava

CHARGE PREMIER WITH PLANNING TREASON

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Berlin, Sept. 29—(AP)—Six persons have been executed in the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, it was disclosed authoritatively today, as Germany enforced a rigid state of civil emergency and held the premier, General Alois Elias, under arrest on charges of premeditating treason.

(The Czech government in exile said in London that General Josef Bily, former military commander of Bohemia, and General Hugo Vojti, deputy commander of the Seventh Army Corps at Bratislava were among those executed in the first German suppressive moves.)

The German public and foreign correspondents in Germany knew no details of the developments in the protectorate beyond the announcement that Reinhard Heydrich, ace trouble shooter of the German secret police, had General Elias arrested and ordered the state of emergency within 24 hours after taking over the post of Reich's protector there Saturday.

Heydrich relieved 68-year-old Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, who was said to have asked for tmeporary leave because of ill health.

Berlin, Sept. 29—(AP)—General Alois Elias, premier of the German protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, was held today on charges of premeditating high treason as Nazi authorities took steps to curb certain elements among the Czech population which they said had committed acts hostile to the Reich.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN AUTOMOBILE

Glenolden, Pa., Sept. 29—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Florence Johnson, 31, whose husband reported yesterday she had been missing since last Friday, was found last night sprawled across the front seat of her automobile in a garage near her home.

Bloodstains were found about her nose and mouth but there were no indications of violence, Deputy Coroner Charles H. Drewes of Delaware county, reported. Dr. Arthur M. Largey estimated she had been dead about 24 hours.

The husband George Johnson, told Drews she had been under treatment for a nervous disorder and he had taken her to Pittsburgh last week for an examination by a physician. She disappeared with the family automobile, he said, and he returned to Glenolden to await her return.

Job Ferrying Bombers Is Most Monotonous U. S. Army Flier Says

Philadelphia, Sept. 29—(AP)—Flying bombers across the Atlantic ocean from Canada to England is just about the most monotonous thing that ever happened.

At least, that's what Captain John I. Devine, Jr., says.

"Nothing to it," said the 26-year-old former U. S. Army flier home for a weekend visit with his mother.

"There's no thrill in this job. It's so monotonous as to be boring. All you do is set your course on old George (automatic pilot)".

Devine has made two trips in Hudson-Lockheed bombers since joining the Royal Air Force ferry service two months ago after being mustered out of the army at Manila.

"While there have been no attacks, as far as I know, from enemy squadrons, we nevertheless keep our ships near what cloud strata there is in sight—just in case," he said. "Our job is to get the ships across safe and sound and keep out of trouble.

"Another instruction is to veer off from convoy below. A few pot shots from a gun crew which might mistake you for an enemy is no help to your peace of mind, and might blow you out of the air besides."

"You're in England within nine to 12 hours," he added.

He likes the pay though—$1,000 a month for one flight, $1,200 for two during a 30-day period and $1,500 for three.

First Year of Turnpike Justifies Its Construction Chairman States

Harrisburg, Sept. 29—(AP)—With its first birthday two days away, Pennsylvania's $70,000,000 high-speed turnpike was acclaimed today as the forerunner of similar highways which will net-work the east and connect Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

"Before many years, at least one highway of the same type will reach from coast to coast," predicted Chairman Walter A. Jones of the turnpike commission, long an advocate of express highways.

He declared the 160-mile highway had "justified not only its construction, but also its extension to Philadelphia and Ohio, and in fact, throughout the east."

Commission officials said the all-weather highway would return $3,000,000 during the first year of travel as compared with the income of $2,670,000 needed annually to meet expenses and bond interest.

During the year, more than 30 persons have been killed on the twin lines of concrete upon which a maximum speed of 70 miles an hour has now been placed.

Jones, who inspected German highways prior to the current war, sees the express-type highway as a "double-edged military weapon"—effective both for offensive and defensive operations.

Since the opening of the present toll road, 2,196,000 vehicles have rolled over it, paying $2,437,822 in fees. An additional $162,335 from concessions has boosted the total income as of August 31, to $2,360,000.

Kinzua

Kinzua, Sept. 20—Kinzua High School is back to normal schedule after an interruption by the resignation of the principal, B. D. Rosenberry, who accepted a similar position in the Mt. Morris High School in New York state and left immediately. Miss Laura K. Smutz, of Tidioute, was engaged to fill his place. Miss Smutz needs no introduction to Kinzua as she has taught here twice over a period of nine years and her many friends here are pleased that she has returned as high school instructor once again.

A number of persons from here attended the Methodist annual conference at Meadville, Pa., last Sunday, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colosimo, Mrs. H. L. Thompson, Mrs. Charles Linneman, Misses Gertrude White and Ellen Malmberg and Mrs. Gertrude Zerbe, following the afternoon service they remained for the wedding of Mrs. Ona B. Chilson, pastor of the East Kane Methodist church, and formerly pastor of the Kinzua church, and Rev. Sherman Epler, pastor of the Salamanca, N. Y., Methodist church. Rev. and Mrs. Epler were assigned to the the pastorate of the Dunkirk, N. Y., Methodist church at the close of the conference session. Mrs. Epler's mother, Mrs. Grace Ingerson, who made her home with her daughter here will accompany them to Dunkirk.

Last Wednesday evening a farewell dinner was given in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Wayne Price in the Kinzua Community House. Rev. Price was assigned to the Marienville charge of the Methodist church last Sunday in Meadville, and will be leaving soon for his new work. Rev. and Mrs. Price have spent only one year here and have made many friends here who were sorry to hear that he was moved.

Rev. Jack Boyd from New Castle was the newly assigned pastor to the Kinzua and Corydon churches.

Many Kinzua persons hurried to the scene of the nitro-glycerine explosion on the Bradford road Friday noon. One of the first to reach the scene was Boyd English, who was on the Van Scoy lease near the explosion. He assisted in removing Mr. Martin and Streeter from their demolished car.

Mrs. Edith H. Rickenbrode, of Franklin, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Boyd English, returning home with them from Franklin last Sunday.

Dr. C. C. Flatt has been confined to his home by illness for the past several weeks.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter 17

Unexpected Guest

"PAM! Ten years have been frightened off the far end of my life!" Jerry's arms closed around her and drew her tight, the water from their dripping garments making a little circle around them.

"Silly!" Pam exclaimed. "Have you forgotten that I was born in Key West?"

"And consequently swim like a fish. Yes, I had forgotten. I'd forgotten everything in the world, Pam, except that if you went out of my life all of its reason for being would be gone. That if I lost you I'd have lost everything."

Pam clung to Jerry in momentary panic. His words had brought home to her doubly what it would mean to her to lose him. She paused on the though of what she would have done if he had not plunged in after her.

It would, she knew, have built a barrier that they could never have surmounted. It would have separated them forever, because it would in a sense have been making a choice between his own crowd and her. If he had chosen the others in that crisis, she could never have forgiven him.

"Oh, Jerry!" Her emotion finally found words. "I feel that way, too. If I lost you, I'd lose everything. Everything!"

"I know, darling. I know." He kissed her damp face. "Pam, you're the dearest, sweetest girl in the world!"

"If I only could be, for you! I want to be everything in the world that you want."

It was Jerry who was first concerned about their wet clothes.

"You'll take cold," he said. "These wet things. Come, I must get you home where you can get dry ones."

"You keep forgetting that we Conch aren't afraid of salt water," Pam laughed. "Salt water never gives you a cold. It's being out in the rain that does that."

"Says you! Come, I'm taking no chances with you, sweet."

"But really I mean it, Jerry. We're never afraid of being wet with salt water. It never gives you a cold. That's a belief handed down through generations of seafaring men and their women. We're never afraid of the ocean, but we don't want its conch shells in our houses. We feel they're bad luck when you bring them under a roof."

"Nevertheless I'm taking no chances with you." He lifted her in his arms and carried her to his car. "You can change, darling, and then we'll go to the hotel and I'll change. We'll go back to the party and laugh at them for having given us the sweetest hour of my life."

"No, Jerry. I can't go back. Don't ask me to do that. I couldn't."

"But you don't expect me to take you home and then go back to the party alone, Pam? I couldn't do that, either. Not now, Darling, I've got to have you a little while longer. The night's too young and beautiful to give you up, even for a few hours, just yet."

"I'll tell you what"—Pam's voice was as eager as his own—"let's change and then drive to South Beach and let me show you the Southern Cross. They say this is the only place in the States where you can see it."

"In the mood I'm in, sweetheart, an ordinary garden-variety star would be a seven-days' wonder."

It was then that they were aware of Blaze standing beside the car, patiently awaiting her turn at attention. Jerry turned to her.

"You four-legged idiot," he said tenderly. "But you deserve a jewelled collar for your loyalty tonight. Come on," he invited and, with her dripping coat, she got into the car and rode along.

A Heroine Now

MELITA met them at the door and hurried to get a towel with which Jerry could dry Blaze. She hovered over Pam and clucked in anxiety like an old mother-hen over her chicks.

And Jerry, sitting on the bottom step briskly rubbing Blaze, who was thoroughly enjoying the attention, called up to Pam.

"Make yourself beautiful, darling," he said. "On second thought, this skipping the rest of the party is no go. We've got to go back. There is a lot of fun still to be had; the night's young. Besides, Pam, you're a heroine now, and won't that bite into Lenore's pride and vanity! That's going to be a wallop right where it will hurt her most, Pam—in her pride."

Pam didn't reply immediately.

"We can't let that girl annihilate us," Jerry went on then. "Besides, Mother and Dad would worry. They'd think we'd developed quick pneumonia, or something. So the Southern Cross can wait."

"All right," Pam's reply came thoughtfully, "anything you say."

Pam was thinking. Their mutual danger had tricked her into a revelation she had not wanted to make. A sudden upthrust of emotion had led her to say things she would probably regret, things she was not even sure she meant.

There was Leo. Steady, dependable, worthwhile Leo. And the memory of Jerry's bet about her with his friends still lay between them, an invisible barrier. That had not been explained away. Perhaps never could be.

She would go back to the yacht with him. That was all right. That would tantalize Lenore still further, and she had asked for all that could be given her. Pam was selecting another dress to put on.

"Since we're going to go back, Jerry," she said to him, "run along and get yourself into other things while I'm dressing, then come back for me."

She selected a dress of deep cream, a heavy rich silk that a sailor had brought to her father in return for some favor Quellerton had done for him. The marigolds, none the worse for their impromtu bath, were the single touch of ornamentation it needed.

"The encore, darling," Jerry said as he saw her again, "is better than the original number. If the girls were jealous of you before, they'll turn handsprings now. I'm glad to be going back to the party. "But," with elaborate emphasis, "that doesn't mean I don't want to see the Southern Cross with you later, darling."

New Guest

AS JERRY and Pam walked from their car to the boat, they noticed the solitary figure of a man standing staring at the boat with its blaze of light and sounds of gayety. They were passing quite near to him when something about the figure caught Pam's attention. She looked a trace more closely and then spoke.

"Hello, Vin," she said.

"Oh! Hello, Pam." The young man seemed to start as he spoke.

Jerry peered through the shadows and recognized the youth as the one who had seemed to be trailing Freda.

"Do you know him?" Jerry asked in a low voice.

"I've known Vin all my life."

Jerry turned to the young man then.

"Come along in and join the party," he said. "My dad owns the scow, so it's all right!"

Vin hesitated only a moment.

"I'm not dressed—" he started to say, and Pam smiled gently, for she knew the fresh white suit Vin wore was probably his best.

"Oh, you're all right!" Jerry cut in. "No rules and regulations here. Or if there are, I'm the bird who makes them. So come in and grab yourself an evening."

"I'd like to!"

Vin was beside them, walking in with them.

"Go pick yourself a partner, and have yourself a time," Jerry advised him with a friendly warmth. "No introductions here, the ship's flag does for that!"

So Vin slipped away to find himself a girl and Jerry and Pam were the bright stars of the moment.

Everyone had their congratulations to offer. As soon as he could, Jerry took Pam away to a little spot atop the cabin, from which he wanted to show her the stars. Up there he said:

"It wasn't stars I wanted to show you, Pam. Look! And he held in his hand the sea bean and the violet she had given him. "I've kept them with me continually."

"Jerry!" That swift uplift of her heart again. "But how foolish of you!"

"Foolish? Not at all, darling. These represent one of the smartest things I've ever done. And, you know"— he was grinning whimsically—"I seem to remember your saying you'd never ask me into your house again and my saying you could'nt keep that threat. Well, tonight you asked me in. I seem to be getting somewhere. Progressing, as it were."

"Foolish! Could I be discourteous to a man who had risked his life for me when he thought I needed saving?"

"Foolish? Well, as I seem to remember saying before, darling, it's nice foolishness."

It was then that Blaze, who had been crowded away from them in their triumphant return to the yacht, sniffed inquisitively from the stairs. Her nose was quickly followed by her whole eager body, her tail wagging madly at discovery of her loved ones.

"You old snooper!" Jerry scratched her ear fondly.

"Shall we go down and dance now?" Antoine was idling near the rail as Jerry and Pam passed. "Come on, Antoine." Jerry said. "we could do with a brace of cadenzas!"

Antoine grinned.

"The stars of the evening have but to command," was his easy reply as he moved toward his piano. A chord brought all the boys to attention. And Edmund's opening notes brought dancers to the floor.

Pam, looking over Jerry's shoulder, saw Vin trying to engage Lenore in conversation while de Bellefort stood close. Lenore seemed to writhe with embarrassment. Pam signaled to Vin. He cut in. As Antoine finished, he caught Vin's eyes in friendly greeting and held out his baton. Vin moved swiftly toward him, urged on by a friendly pat from Pam.

"Show them how it's done Vin," she said.

Local Hiking Club Enjoys First Trip Of 1941-42 Season

Bristling with enthusiasm and sticktights, forty-four perspiring (the girls glowed) hikers, including eight newcomers, joined in the opening hike, and the sixty-third since its organization, of the Allegheny Hiking Club yesterday afternoon. The weatherman conspired with a cooling rain during the last ten minutes of the hike, which, however, failed to dampen the ardor of the participants.

This week's trip was planned and led by F. M. Geer. The walk was a little over five miles in length from the Pittsfield-Garland road up over the Wilkie ridge road through the State Game Preserve lands between Blue Eye Run and Barton Run, finishing at Dugal, road, whence return trip was made on Route 6. Leaders of the group had brought cars around from the starting point to the end of the trip.

Additional new and interesting trips are planned for the next few weeks, and will be announced each Saturday in the Times-Mirror.

ABOVE:

Frenchmen still defy the Nazi conqueror. They attack Germans, sabotage industry. Photographer's caption on the dramatic photo above described the figure in the center merely as "a French patriot." The scene is the Vincennes military camp, Paris. Two Germans blindfold the condemned man, who is lashed to a pole. At left, a firing squad stands at attention. When the officer at right commands, they will kill the Frenchman.

The tragedy is over. The Frenchman's body slumps—ropes prevent it from falling. The German officer turns away, his job done. Reprisal executions of Frenchmen are increasing in occupied France. The Nazi explanation: "Aggression against Germans."

One of the funniest incidents the national tournament at Asbu Park occurred at a table where old gentleman had pulled up chair to kibitz. Generally, kibitzing is not permitted at the natio al championships except in t arena; but probably the tourn ment director did not want to rude to the old fellow, or possib he had not yet seen the kibitze Only one thing is certain — th kibitzer had never played in tournament, as you will see fro the jam he got into.

He was sitting behind the Nor player. South opened the biddi with one spade, and North had problem. With the ace and o spade, he cannot bid three spad as that would indicate he h normal support. Two spad would be sign-off, and his ha is too strong for that. His hear and diamonds are good, but fi clubs to the eight — he hesitat to bid two clubs on that holding

One no trump would be a sig off. While pondering whether bid two clubs or two no trun the old gentleman arose, th oughly disgusted, and said, "Y call these fellows experts! F five minutes he has been tryi to figure out what to do, and he has is a simple two no trun response. I'm going home."

A sequel to the story is that t declarer did not bid two no trun —he bid two clubs and the fi contract was three no trump. B the club bid made it difficult f the opponent to open that su and as a result, three no trun was made. The opponents co plained about the kibitzer's mark, but when they looked Dad, he had gone home, convinc that the proper response was t no trump.

Declarer won the opening le with dummy's king of diamon Then he cashed the ace of spad and led another. East won a led the other diamond.

It is obvious, with all hands sight, that if East had ever start the clubs, the defenders co have cashed four clubs and clarer would still have had to l a spade. But North's two-cl bid effectually discouraged B from opening the suit at eith opportunity.

SEVERAL STEPS FORWARD

Everybody talks about the beauty of the Pennsylvania hills, but as Mark Twain once said about the weather, very few people do anything about it. Of course, many people take a fleeting glance at the beautiful vistas from some of the roadways while driving up and down the valley and in the surrounding hills, but it takes a real hiker to enjoy them to the fullest.

It remained for a little group of enthusiastic hikers, who in 1939 organized the Allegheny Hiking Club, to make a concerted effort to get the people of Warren interested actively in their forest surroundings. The initation fee for this group is a stout heart and a sturdy pair of shoes, and the yearly dues are made up of the willingness to put on some old clothes and climb an occasional hill, plus the zest to buffet a winter wind and laugh at an occasional rain storm.

The members of this group include all ages from Boy and Girl Scouts to people of seventy. The sunday afternoon trips, which incidentally were resumed yesterday, are usually from five to eight miles, depending upon the contour of the country to be traversed, and last season there was an average of twenty-eight persons, with a minimum of nine one Sunday and a maximum of forty-seven on another. Altogether since the club was started there have been sixty-two trips, none of these exactly alike, covering a total distance of more than three hundred fifty miles. A map of Warren County has been made by two members of the club, showing accurately as to location and distance the hikes up to date, and it is the ambition of the club leaders to carry the total hikes to one hundred before repeating any trips.

From a modest beginning, with very limited expense to the participants, this group has created new interest in the forest areas around Warren and vicinity, and among its future plans will hike on many of the new trails marked recently by the attractive signs of the Allegheny National Forest.

From a standpoint of community interest and the healthful outdoor activity available to everyone, the Allegheny Hiking Club is to be congratulated and welcomed as an outstanding community enterprise of continuing and increasing importance.

POLITICS AND THE ARMY

The relationship between the ordinary civil and political life of an American and his life as a soldier is interesting. In the early days of the Republic, a sharp line was drawn against political activity by soldiers because of fear that a military clique might gain political power.

But great mass armies in the wars since 1860 produced a different picture. Men in France in 1918 didn't vote because it just wasn't practical. But with today's army most states now provide for voting by their soldiers. The War Department is now providing also for soldiers to run for office under certain circumstances, especially those who were in office when inducted and who wish to seek re-election.

Generally speaking it would probably not be wise to allow active soldiers to mix actively in politics. Under exceptional circumstances, however, the War Department is probably doing well to make exceptions.

PEPPING UP THE POULTRY

The great American hen is going to have to do her bit. Fifty billion eggs is the goal for 1942 in place of the mere 42,000,000,000 that rolled from the hen houses in 1941. Something will have to be done to pep up the poultry.

Electric lights in the hen houses might do it, but there's the power shortage to be considered. Just how to appeal to a hen's better nature we'll have to leave to the experts.

But it's too bad they can't be patiently told of the fate of the hens of Europe. They all wound up months ago in the stew pots of the German army.

The spotlight, so far as baseball fans are concerned, shifts this week from the war abroad, to the baseball stadiums in Brooklyn and New York.

The Jackets and Dragons are certainly providing some swell entertainment for sport fans!

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — James Melton's favorite story concerns the hillbilly who was making his first airplane flight across the country and who had just sold an original story to a movie company for an enormous sum.

The plane made a stop, and a fuel truck rushed up, filled the plane's tanks with gas, and rolled off again. The plane took off and a couple of hours later it came down again, to be met by a fuel truck that dashed up as soon as the plane had settled on the runway. This happened several times during the day, and each time a fuel truck met the plane with gas.

Finally, a passenger turned to the hillbilly and observed, "We're making terrific time, aren't we."

"Yeah," agreed the genius, "and that fuel truck ain't doing bad either."

Its strains were first utilized in 1925 by the late George Gershwin as "Don't Forget Me. Don't Forget Me." . . . There may be a war in progress, but that isn't barring foreign ships from the piers of New York's harbor. . . . It's a lengthening parade of familiar names that is winding along Broadway's stage alleys these days. . . . Big, tall, Sinclair Lewis is one of them. . . . "Red," as his friends know him, has paused work on his novel to direct a play. . . . He lives at an apartment in 49th street. "Red" just can't seem to throw off the acting bug, and for the life of me I can't see why a Nobel prize winner would want to become an actor. Even his last novel was about the theater. The theater undoubtedly has its charm, but I will not be as a thespian or even as a director that the "Main Street" man is remembered.

Field Marshal Foch Led Allies in World War I

IN 1939, France fell before the onslaughts of the German army in 39 days. This stunning defeat was partly caused by inferior and outmoded equipment, but it was also due in large measure to the rottenness of the French general staff.

French generals were found incompetent in World War I also, but were removed before their fumbling led to complete defeat. Master tactician in the first World War and the man who eventually led the allied armies to victory was Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch (1851-1929), who was honored philatelically in the 1940 stamp above.

Foch was placed in supreme command of the allied armies March 26, 1918, following the gigantic German attacks which drove back the allied lines at Picardy jeopardizing Paris and Calais.

A WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Very shortly now, a million or more boys, their families, kinfolks and girl friends will cock their ears at a little room in the west wing of the Capitol, for there a subcommittee of the Senate military affairs committee will hold hearings on whether soldiers' pay should be raised.

If you want to bet, bet that it will be—because the straws in the wind are blowing in that direction.

When Sen. Lister Hill, chairman of the subcommittee, whip of the democratic side of the Senate, and one of the chief administration spokesmen on military affairs, introduced the resolution which has brought about the hearing, he included in it that the investigation was to be held "with a view to" increasing army pay.

When the draft extension bill was passed, the pay increase amendment came out of the anti-administration ranks. There was a marked absence of debate on the floor opposing the increase of $10 a month for all men in service a year or more. When it came to a vote, party lines crumbled and the amendment went through.

The Question: How Much?

THERE already are two bills before the senate providing for the increase and the report of the committee probably will be based on one of these.

One, by Sen. Sheridan Downey, California democrat, would increase the Army pay $30 a month—but with the proviso that the increase would be paid the men monthly after their discharge from the service. Sen. Ed Johnson, Colorado democrat, has a bill which would increase army pay 25 per cent (officers excepted).

Senator Hill makes no bones about his views. He says soldiers' pay is low and should be increased.

"The question," he says, "is how much, and that is the reason we want to hold hearings and gather information from officials of the War and Navy departments, the Marine corps and the Coast Guard."

Bonuses Possible

ARMY pay now starts at $21 a month for privates with less than four months' training. After four months, unless a man has shown himself unfit or completely inefficient, his pay climbs to $30. This is known as "seventh grade" and if a private stays in that class for eight months more, he receives $40.

But this is only the pay scale for "buck privates." Privates, first class, get $36; corporals, $54; sergeants, $60; staff sergeants, $72; first sergeants, $84; and master sergeants, $126. In each case, of course, there is $10 more for all men who have served more than a year. Add to that the bonuses, ranging from $3 to $30 a month for specialists (electricians, mechanics, radio operators, etc.). There also are bonuses for decorations and awards.

You Still Won't Get Rich

MEN in the armed forces also get food, clothing, medical and dental attention without charge. There are other compensations, such as free entertainment, special rates for movies, low railroad fares.

All of this doesn't mean that the Army can dispense with that ancient ditty, "You'll never get rich." At least, I haven't heard of any draftees planning to retire on their savings from Army pay.

But if Congress goes through, as some are convinced with another hike in Army pay, the fighting game in the already best-paid force in the world is going to be getting itself into competition, from a remunerative standpoint, with some of our better known underpaid professions.

Miss Doris C. Nelson And Joseph Pastrick Married at Sheffield

Sheffield, Sept. 29—Miss Doris Christine Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Nelson, Dunham street, and Joseph Pastrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pastrick, Sr., South Main street, were united in marriage in a pretty wedding ceremony performed at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in St. Anthony's church. Rev. M. J. Macken, pastor of the church, officiated.

Music for the processional and the recessional was played by Catherine Eustice, church organist, who also played the accompaniments for Miss Evelyn Norlin, who sang "'O Precious Love,' "Ave Maria" and "I Love You Truly."

Escorted to the flower-banked altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a figured white satin gown. Her finger-tip veil suspended from a Juliet cap of pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

Attending her as maid of honor was Miss Anna Holup, of Ludlow, a cousin of the bridegroom. Miss Holup wore a gown of yellow organdy and carried a bouquet of lavendar and yellow roses.

Mrs. Nelson, mother of the bride, wore black with white accessories, and Mrs. Pastrick, the bridegroom's mother, wore navy blue. Both wore corsages of white asters.

George Pado, of Donora, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man for Mr. Pastrick.

The wedding reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, with about 50 guests in attendance. Luncheon, served at noon for the members and relatives of the two families, was followed in early evening by a dinner for them and a number of invited guests.

The bride is a graduate of the Sheffield High School, Class of 1938, and is employed in the office of Dr. R. L. Taylor. Mr. Pastrick, who graduated from the local school in 1937, is employed by the Pennsylvania Bottle Company.

The newlyweds are residing in their newly furnished home, 226 Church street.

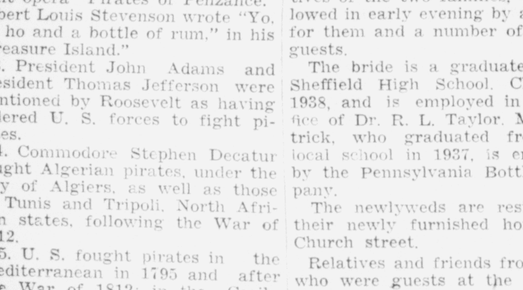
Rivers Teeming With Life



Sit on the wharf of a busy river front and watch boats come and go with their cargoes of food and supplies. But, look through a microscope into an artery of the human body, and you see more activity than on any river in China or the world. The red and white corpuscles of the blood act as little boats, carrying oxygen, nourishment and protection, to the most remote tissues of the body. The food you eat and the air you breathe must be distributed by these little ships.

Accumulated wastes of the body would soon poison you, if these little cell "boats" did not carry them through the veins to the lungs, kidneys and sweat glands, to be eliminated.

The "blood platelets," plasma and white cells of the blood constantly circulate, ready to pounce on the slightest pin prick, close it up and form a barricade against infection.

Keep these "rivers of life" in your body teeming with rich, healthy blood, filled with cell boats in good repair and carrying full cargoes.

Leading Contralto Of Metropolitan To Sing For Philomel

Members of the Philomel Club are busy with plans for opening the club's new season, which will mark the golden jubilee of its organization as The Warren Piano Club.

The first public event to mark the celebration of the anniversary will be the presentation of Doris Doe, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, in recital at the Woman's Club on Wednesday, October 29.

Singing 56 roles and appearing almost nightly during the 16 weeks of the Metropolitan's New York season, Doris Doe, famed contralto of the company, can lay claim to being the group's busiest artist.

She sings all of the contralto roles in the Wagnerian repertoire, as well as most of the charcterizations in the French and Italian divisions of her voice range. She has been with the Metropolitan 10 years, learning two or three new roles each season.

Miss Doe received her musical education in Chicago, New York and Dresden, Germany, where she went in the midst of her training to master the Wagnerian roles. She was contracted for the Metropolitan by Gatti-Casazza after being heard by the late Arturo Bodansky.

She has been soloist with practically every symphonic organization in this country, as well as in London, Paris, Dresden, Berlin, Cologne and Monte Carlo. She plans to resume her recital work in November with an initial concert at Town Hall, New York City, her first in several years.

Prominent Wheeling, W. Va., Girl Becomes Bride Of Playwright Lawrence Riley in Hollywood, Cal.

MISS VIRGINIA SWEENEY

MR. LAWRENCE H. RILEY

Announcement has been received here that Miss Edith Virginia Sweeney, of Highland Park, W. Va., became the bride of Lawrence Hugh Riley, of 511 Fourth avenue, this city, on Wednesday, September 24, in a simple service read in the latter's Hollywood Calif., residence.

Mr. Riley, successful playwright and short story writer, has been in Hollywood for the past several months, engaged in writing for the motion picture industry.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Riley left for a short wedding trip along the Pacific coast, to be at home after October 15 at 7906 Hillside venue.

The bride, member of a family prominent for several generations in the industrial, financial civic and social development of Wheeling, is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Espey Bell Sweeny. She was graduated from Triadelphia high school and later from Briarcliffe at Briarcliffe Manor, N. Y. She studied at the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts for three years, the third year being spent abroad in intensive study in England, France and Italy.

She is unusually talented and has been active in community, civic and social affairs. She is a member of the Junior League of Wheeling, Inc., the Sprig Twig of Ohio Valley General Hospital, Garden Study Club and the Drama Reading Club. She is a member of the board of trustees of Oglebay Institute, and of the Oglebay Mansion-Museum Association.

Mr. Riley is the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James DeCourcey Riley, of Bradford and New York. After graduation from the Asheville School in Asheville, N. C., he entered Princeton University, leaving a few months later to enlist in the medical corps of the United States Army. After serving 18 months in World War I, he turned to newspaper work in the east and later went to Wheeling.

During his three years in that city, he wrote and had published many short stories. Turning his talents to writing plays, he authored "Personal Appearance," which opened on Broadway in the fall of 1935 and ran for 500 performances. Two road companies of the production toured the country, and the original New York cast played a six-months run in Chicago, later touring other major cities.

"Personal Appearance" was made into a motion picture for Mae West, under the title, "Go West, Young Man," and he was commissioned to write or collaborate on a number of major screen stories. One of these was the elaborately staged musical starring Zorina. He spent last winter in New York supervising the production of his second play, "Return Engagement," which was premiered by the Warren Players Club. He expects to continue his screen writings in the coming winter, residing in Hollywood.

Nobody was disappointed by the Red Jacket-Springdale A. A. fracas at Russell Field yesterday, unless perhaps the invaders were a bit downcast in losing, though the battle they put up against the western Pennsylvania champs as Warren won a 10-2 victory was one marveled at by 1200 fans who attended the game.

Springdale held the Red Jackets to a lone touchdown and backed them up to their own goal line in the third period, where a bad center cost Warren a safety and two points.

The lone six-pointer came just after the second quarter opened, when a third down pass to Bob Main, home on furlough from the army air corps, from "Lefty" Check was good for the score and fourteen yards. Harry Rosequist booted the point, his fourth successive point of the season without a miss, and the Jackets held the upper hand the rest of the way.

In the final stanza "Rosey" again used his toe in splitting the uprights with his second field goal of the season from the fifteen yard line.

Outside of those three scores the remainder of the game was a defensive masterpiece with a surprisingly strong Springdale club staving off drive upon drive before the Red Jackets could move close enough to the visitors' goal line to threaten scoring.

The distance punting by Johnny Howells, Springdale quarterback, kept Warren away from the promised land most of the time, and the determined invaders used the air to advantage in turning in an exhibition that won't soon be forgotten by the many followers of the Jackets.

Evenly matched in weight and ability, the two teams struck at each other time and again but couldn't penetrate effectively into the defended ground of the foe.

Four fumbles hurt the scoring opportunities of the locals, two times being on their way to a possible score only to lose the ball via that route. Each time Howells would punt out of danger and the Jackets would be forced to start all over again.

Several new faces studded the lineup of the Jackets in the game.

SHEFFIELD HIGH TROUNCES KANE BY 11-0 COUNT

Sheffield, Sept. 29—Outperforming their opponents in every department of the game and forcing and taking advantage of the breaks throughout, the S. H. S. Wolverines defeated the Kane Hi Wolves Saturday afternoon at Kane, 11 to 0.

Sheffield's first victory over a major opponent in several seasons, it also was the local's first victory over the Hilltoppers, who are coached this season by Tom Drummond, formerly coach here, since his Sheffied team of 1937 turned the trick. The victory, fifth for Sheffield in the series, which began in 1924, was a great boost for the team and Coach Joe Massa, popular mentor, who succeeded Drummond as local coach.

Included in the samewhat odd total of 11 points recorded by the Wolverines, were 2 safeties, a touchdown and the extra point.

The punting and all-around playing of Mike Steffan, who had been kept out of the opening game here two weeks ago on doctor's orders, and the fiery, aggressive brand of ball played by the entire Wolverine team were outstanding in the contest.

The game was witnessed by a large crowd of fans, including a sizeable delegation from Sheffield. An argument broke out among some of the fans and caused a mild flurry of excitement as the game neared its end. As a result, two Sheffield young men were taken in custody by the Kane police. They were released later after paying fines assessed by a Kane magistrate.

Louis, Nova Fight For Championship

HEAVY KING IS 13-5 FAVORITE TO WIN BY K. O.

BY GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—Joe Louis, of the blasting fists, and Lou Nova, a rugged, courageous specimen from California, clash at 10 o'clock (EST) tonight at the Polo Grounds in a 15-round heavyweight championship fight that promises to leave 60,000 spectators limp.

This is one battle that scarcely can miss. Opinion is divided sharply on the probable winner, but there seems no doubt in anyone's mind that it will be a cruel, spectacular engagement while it lasts.

This is one of the few times that the big Negro champion has met a man his equal in physical equipment, fighting heart and absolute confidence since he won the title from Jim Braddock in 1937. Offhand, only Max Schmeling among the many who have challenged Louis and taken their beatings appeared on the surface to have as good a chance as Nova against the famous Bomber.

Nova belongs in there tonight on his record. He knocked out Max Baer twice, among other things, and had Tommy Farr on the verge of a knockout in the closing rounds of their scrap. Only some peculiar interference by the referee saved Tommy, who only shortly before that had breezed 15 rounds against Louis.

The one time Nova ever was beaten as a professional was the night he climbed into the ring, a sick man, against Tony Galento in Philadelphia. He got it good that night, what with his illness, Tony's rough tactics and a referee who looked on with amused tolerance.

"But I learned something that night," he says now. "I thought I could whip any man in the world, even if I was half-sick. I know now that it can't be done. This time I'm in the most perfect physical condition of my life, and I won't muff the chance."

The bookmakers do not share Nova's confidence in his destiny. At last check-up they were offering a bonus of 13 to 5 that he catches a licking from Louis. Anyone wanting to bet on the champion was asked to put up $15 to win $5. It is one of the biggest betting fights, they say, since the days of Jack Dempsey.

WYATT, RUFFING MOUND CHOICES FOR FIRST GAME

BY JUDSON BAILEY

New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—The boisterous Brooklyn Dodgers and staid New York Yankees focused their full attention on the World Series today, even if a lot of this town's sports fans did not.

Wyatt

Since the baseball classic does not get underway until Wednesday, the sports spotlight was turned on tonight's heavyweight title fight between Joe Louis and Lou Nova at the Polo Grounds, right across the Harlem river from Yankee Stadium.

But the champions of the National and American Leagues went about the business of preparing for their own world's championship struggle. Both teams scheduled workouts at the Stadium, and the Dodgers arranged to ride in a late-afternoon parade in Brooklyn as the borough officially and elaborately celebrated the Brooks' first pennant in 21 years.

Ruffing

This monster demonstration was expected to excite the Dodgers' fabulous followers to such peaks of enthusiasm that the entire squad of Brooklyn players moved into a Manhattan hotel last night in order to get some rest and relaxation before the big show starts. CHICAGO BEARS TRIP GREEN BAY IN LOOP SCRAP

BY TOM SILER

Chicago, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Chicago Bears required only 50 fleeting seconds to prove that they are ready to defend their prized professional football title against all comers.

Playing before a sellout throng of 24,876 at Green Bay, the Bears rolled up a 15-point edge only to see the Packers pass them dizzy and take a 17-15 lead. Then came the payoff. The massive Chicagoans retaliated with the vital touchdown in 50 seconds. George

Pass defense? What pass defense? Not having the answer to the latter question caused the Warren High school Dragons plenty of trouble at Titusville Saturday as they were forced to go all out in winning a 25-19 victory over a Rocket team that took to the air to belittle the charges of Coach J. B. Leidig.

Throughout the entire first half and the fourth quarter the Dragons played ball that wasn't on a par with that of playground calibre, not being able to knockdown a pass, and allowing the Brown and Gold to pile up quite a score and also a huge amount of yardage.

The Rockets jumped off in the first quarter with a pass from Don Sharp, one of two lads in the game with that name, to their speedy colored end, Bill Jones, good for thirty yards and a touchdown.

Warren couldn't score until the second canto when a fourth down pass from Bobby Sedon to Warren's Don Sharp knotted the score. Salerno hit the line for the point giving the Dragons a margin, but by half time the Titusville pass combination of Sharp and Jones had added another score, also a point, to keep the score locked at the half time 13-13. Warren scored their second touchdown in the second chapter on a plunge from the one yard line by Sharp before the second Rocket score, but couldn't hold the lead.

Playing smarter ball in the third period, and the only time in which they really played like the Blue and White team they're supposed to be, the Dragons scored two more counters with Dick Kifer intercepting a pass and racing fifty yards to a score, and Salerno hitting the line after a neat drive put the ball on the Titusville three yard line, to go over for Warren's last tally.

Reserves were responsible for allowing the Rockets to add up nineteen points by letting a pass go over their heads late in the final quarter as Carlson walked down the sidelines for a few yards and into the end zone, completing the sixteen yard touchdown aerial.

Shortly thereafter the game ended, with the Dragons leaving the field victorious but having learned the valuable lesson that over-confidence always spells trouble. As far as the light but smart Titusville team was concerned, they had scored a moral victory in adding up a higher total against the Dragons than has any other opponent so far this season.

Next week the local schoolboys will be in for another dose of sky football, as a none too strong Oil City eleven attempts to score an upset by whipping the Leidigmen. The game will be next to the last showing the Dragons will make on the sod at Russell Field this year, and fans will be expecting them to give a much more creditable performance than that ragged battle this past weekend.

No Blue and White player stood out in the fray, and the real stars of the game were Titusville's Don Sharp and his pass receiver, Bill Jones, the two being nearly responsible by themselves, for giving Warren such a battle after being rated as rank underdogs before the contest.

YOUNGSVILLE HI TOPS FALCONER BY 13-6 SCORE

The Youngsville Eagles turned in a fine grid exhibition at Falconer Saturday trimming their hosts 13-6 with two touchdowns, one in the first and one in the final quarter.

The first score for the winners came when Howe intercepted a Falcon pass on the homesters' 49 yard line and returned it to the three where he fumbled. A Falconer player attempted to recover but the ball rolled over the goal line where it was recovered by Colbert for the touchdown.

A pass from Howe to Clark in the final chapter netted the Eagles thirty-five yards and their final six pointer, and Dunkle booted the point from placement.

Falconer's only score came on a 20 yard aerial from Walker to Benson.

Next week the Eagles battle Otto Township at Duke Center and the charges of Stockdale and Passaro will be after their third win of the season.

JAMESTOWN, MEADVILLE, WARREN TROUBLES OVER NIGHT GRID GAMES WASN'T SERIOUS; LOCAL RULING PROHIBITS NIGHT BATTLES

Warren High School was the topic, and nothing to rave over either, of a paragraph in Johnny Nelson's "Sport Corner," in which the veteran Bradford Era sports editor took it upon himself to add a little something to the wrinkles in Warren's rounding out their dates with Meadville and Jamestown for this campaign and whether or not the games were to be night contests. While Johnny had it slightly mixed up, there was a little discussion over the dates, but here's the real story, from local sources that are authoritative. Jamestown didn't care whether they played night or day, and it was mainly up to Warren who had to decide upon the afternoon date when the school board voted against any more night gridironing for the Blue and White. Meadville wanted a night game, playing the rest of their slate under the arcs, but Warren, having to refuse this game also if it were to be night, took into consideration that in November, when the game is to be played, weather may be disagreeable to play even in the day, and even worse at night.

While the Bulldogs favored the arc light, the game was finally set for the daytime and there should have been little more said. But where the schools left off, sports writers resumed, and we finally get our opportunity to cap the issue by explaining it once and for all. As far as the team goes, it would play any opponent any time on the foe's own field and under the conditions of the enemy. That's the policy of the Dragons. But when the school fathers see the subject differently, they have the last word and what they decide is the ruling which the Blue and White must follow. Next year Bradford and Oil City will seek night games, and again the issue will be raised. While this corner is all for night football in many ways, there's little that we can do, judging from the small amount of success met with by our predecessors in this pillar. So patience is golden in this case, and maybe things will shape up by next year. But there's little danger that either rivalry will be cancelled because of the local ruling, and we don't consider the Dragons old-fashioned as Johnny hinted just because they don't play at night, and we won't until the majority of games are seen during a season under the mazdas.

There being little on which to comment favorably concerning the local schoolboys in their weekend showing against Titusville, the orchids are sent today to Coach Joe Massa and his Sheffield High school Wolverines who whipped the Kane Wolves under the guidance of Tom Drummond, former Sheffield coach, on Saturday by a 11-0 score. With only twenty-one players in Orange and Black garb, and fourteen of these being the maximum of the Massa squad that could really be rated in the class with the Wolves in regard to weight, Sheffield proved that a good little team is better than a mediocre big team by trouncing the hilltoppers, and decisively. Two safeties in the first half, something very odd when it's seldom you even see one, show what kind of ball the Massamen played, and the many fans who saw the tilt in their consensus stated that the story could be told in four parts. Sheffield merely was a well drilled squad which outplayed, outcharged, and outsmarted the Wolves, and was the more alert of the two elevens throughout the fracas.

1. It will free you from worry and possible loss of credit.
2. Making one easy monthly payment is considerably more convenient than trying to scatter your pay over several directions at once.
3. By having one easy payment to make each month you will have most of your salary left to pay current expenses and save.

Patrolman John Doyle said she told him she was awakened by the efforts of two men to break down her apartment door.

Doyle recounted that Mrs. Miley told him the men asked her where the receipts from Saturday night's dance were located. She told them, whereupon one of the men struck her in the head with a window weight, knocking her down, and then fired three shots into her body.

Miss Miley rushed from her room to lend aid to her mother, Doyle reported, and was shot down. Her pajama clad body was found in the hallway.

Harrigan theorized that the shooting and robbery may have been committed by persons familiar wit the set-up at the swanky building and grounds. He said the electric switches had been turned off and the telephone lines disserviced.

The only clues available, Harrigan said, were two buttons from a man's coat, three slugs from a .32 caliber automatic and several fingerprints on the wall near the Mileys' apartment.

Miss Miley, a prominent golfer for the past decade, has won numerous tournaments, including the women's western open, southern and trans-Mississippi. She was champion of Kentucky six times.

and the additions turned in impressive showings before the critical eyes of the spectators. Harry Galla and "Sax" Sachi, both former Erie Tech stars and the former also having played with Western Reserve, saw action in the game and turned in creditable performances.

The work of Bob Main won the approval of the fans and the stellar end, valuable both offensively and defensively, will be with the local pros next week and plans to make arrangements to play with them on weekends thereafter.

Others in the local lineup who were outstanding were Joe Bizzaro, Harold Brown, "Bullet Bill" Graham, Art Giancotti, Walt Fredericks, Rosequist and Harry Ganza, with the remainder of the team all playing capable ball.

It was the best showing the local crew has made to date, and the improvement they showed from last week's game brought favorable comment.

Next week the Red and Yellow charges of Paris and Reese move up against what promises to be their hardest game of the season, that with the Trafford Alumni at Russell Field. Last year the champs won a 7-0 victory over the coming aggregation but Trafford has added strength this season and already owns a 13-0 win over the Pace A. C., which held the Jackets to a 10-7 score.

And the capable Pace club will return to play the locals at Corry a week from Wednesday night in the first of four night games in that city. The date is definite now, and other opponents will be booked to follow the opening date down there.

till opening day to set out for the series prompted police to assign a small detail of patrolmen to Yankee Stadium last night, 48 hours ahead of their previous plans.

The 28,000 unreserved and bleacher seats still available at the stadium will not go on sale till Wednesday morning but a line of fans is expected to start forming at almost any hour now.

All box and reserved seats at the stadium have been sold out for several weeks, and a crowd of about 70,000, largest in series history, is expected to see the first game. A crowd of similar size will see the second game in the stadium Thursday and then the scene will shift to Ebbets Field, which seats only 32,000, for contests Friday, Saturday and Sunday. If sixth and seventh games are necessary, they will be played at the stadium next Monday and Wednesday.

All games will start at 1:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) except the Sunday contest, which will not begin until 2 p. m. because of New York law.

It is agreed generally that the opening hurlers will be 33-year-old Whit Wyatt for the Dodgers, a righthander with 22 victories, and 36-year-old Charley (Red) Ruffing for the Yankees, a righthander with 15 triumphs.

Chicago Bears Trip Green Bay in Loop Scrap

(From Page Seven)

McAfee returned the kickoff 51 yards to Green Bay's 49. Bill Osmanski tore off 23 yards, Ray Nolting picked up 13 and McAfee floated around left end for the score. Later Bob Snyder connected for his second field goal of the game, to clinch the outcome, 25 to 17.

The Giants, rated as the team to beat for the eastern title, spoiled the Redskins' 1941 league debut winning 17 to 10 before 35,677 Washington fans.

Jock Sutherland's Brooklyn club kept pace with the Giants by defeating Philadelphia, 24 to 13, Saturday night. Referee William H. (Red) Friesell suffered a broken leg when a Brooklyn player accidentally ploughed into him.

Detroit and the Chicago Cardinals engaged in a battle of frustration Saturday night, a 14-14 deadlock which left each team still looking for its first league victory of 1941.

Brooklyn has the toughest assignment this week, meeting the Washington eleven in the Capital Sunday while the Giants are invading Pittsburgh and the Bears play Cleveland. In the fourth Sabbath battle Green Bay and the Cardinals meet at Milwaukee.
